Brothers killed in accident

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Brothers Keith Goodyear, 31, and Bryan Goodyear, 29, of Antioch, were killed in a one-vehicle accident in the early morning hours of July 23 along Grass Lake Rd. in Fox Lake.

Brian Goodyear was rushed by helicopter to Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge. Keith Goodyear was pronounced dead at the scene, according to Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson.

"They lost control of the Blazer on a curve on Grass Lake Rd. east of State Park Rd. The Blazer flipped over. They were going west and it ended up facing east," Richardson said.

Richardson said Keith Goodyear had just returned to the area.

An inquest will be held in five to six weeks.

The Goodyears are brothers of Lake Zurich detective Tracy Goodyear. Fox Lake Police Chief Edward Gerretsen said he spoke with Lake Zurich Chief William Urry about the mishap.

Traffic light on Main St. discussed

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The topic of an additional stoplight on Rte. 83 (Main Street) was revisited by trustee Barbara Porch at the regular meeting of the Village of Antioch Board of Trustees.

Village administrator Tim Wells said, "North of the existing library is where the parking lot will go [in reference to library expansion]. I talked to Kathy LaBuda (director of Antioch Public Library) last week and they are just starting to look at this issue."

"Poplar is to the north, and a stoplight would probably go there and not at Williams," Wells added.

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug said, "We can't just have a pedestrian light because Rte. 83 is a state highway."

"Something does need to be done there. Kids are trying to cross the road all the time to get to the pool," concluded Wells.

Good clean fun

First annual soap box derby offered prizes, family amusement

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

About 300-400 people came out to watch the first annual soap box derby held as part of Antioch's MegaFest and sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

"We held the race on Orchard just east of Main St.," said Barbara Porch, director of the Chamber. "It was perfect. It was a nice safe slope. It was enough to make the cars move, but not so much as to be unsafe."

The derby had 11 entrants. One of the entries came in the day before the derby.

"We were really pleased with the turnout," said Porch. "And everyone who came to watch cheered on all of the cars no matter who they were."

In the youth division, the derby winners were Josie Koutsoures for the fastest car and Robbie Lindstrom for the most original. There was no klunker in this division.

Amanda Stewart had the fastest car in the adult category. Most original went to the Antioch Rescue Squad. Lakes Area Music was awarded the klunker prize as its car was unable to make it all the way to the finish line.

Six-year-old Anthony White said, "I saw a show on TV, and it looked fun. Me and my dad built the car. It looks like a dune buggy."

Anthony White's father Mike White said, "There's been a lot of participation from the neighborhood. Everybody has been coming

White Rd. to close

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Village of Antioch Board of Trustees unanimously approved a motion to temporarily close White Rd. Though this action is slated as temporary, it is likely that the road would be vacated and reconnect into the proposed Neumann Homes development if and when the project goes through.

The topic was brought up by the village's consulting engineer John Boldt. He said, "The road is in somewhat deplorable condition. It floods every time it rains. It really wouldn't be prudent for the village to put more money into that road."

The road is a gravel road that runs between Savage Rd. and Deep Lake Rd. Three homes with acreage are situated on the road.

"I'm recommending temporary closure until we see what happens with the Anest property [where the Neumann Homes development is proposed]," Bolt added. "We still have to talk to the township. It's beyond throwing gravel down. We also haven't talked with the residents."

One of the residents on that road, Marianne Guy said, "We want the road closed. There is a dust problem from the cars cutting through, and kicking everything up."

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug noted that an agreement has to be made with the township, but said, "We're trying to solve a problem here. We've had a lot of complaints about the road in the past."

Village administrator Tim Wells said, "I'm positive that there is not a dedicated right of way (on White Rd.)."

Discussion turned to how the road would be blocked off at the Deep Lake Rd. end. Trustee Dorothy Larson said, "We are looking for a more permanent structure to close off the road."

Shineflug added, "I would not be comfortable without both proper signage and barricades."

Keller fills open spot on planning, zoning board

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch planning and zoning board member Don Zeman has resigned his position. Zeman was appointed girls' varsity basketball coach at Antioch Community High School and felt he could no longer devote the time required to the board.

With that, Mayor Marilyn Shineflug recommended appointing Carol Keller to the board. The vote from the board of directors of the Village of Antioch was unanimous to appoint her to the position.

Keller said, "Mayor Shineflug asked if I would be interested in filling the position. I told her that I am interested in the community and would be happy to accept the position."

Though Keller now fills her days staying home to take care of her children, she spent 11 years as a school psychologist prior to starting a family.

Keller reported that she's already been given a lot of reading material

Lower limits proposed for arsenic in water

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has proposed new, lower limits for the amount of arsenic allowed in public wells.

The proposed standard would bring the limit down from 50 parts-per-billion (ppb) down to 5 ppb.

Joan Muraro, spokesperson for the bureau of water for the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA), said, "There is a 90-day response period to the USEPA's proposal that will end at the end of August. That is the very earliest the proposal would come into effect."

According to Muraro, it was agitation by environmental groups that prompted the USEPA to act. She said the environmental groups feel the level is too high, and added that there is discrepancy within the scientific community about what level of arsenic is acceptable.

"About a year ago, the National Academy of Sciences said that it (the level of arsenic) should be reduced, but not by how much," said Muraro.

Communities with arsenic levels higher than 5 ppb will be given a grace period to bring their water supplies into compliance if the proposal goes through.

"It depends on what the EPA finally decides, but there would be a timetable for communities come into compliance," said Muraro. "They aren't just going to say, 'here is the new standard,' and instantly expect compliance."

The Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA) mandates a yearly consumer confidence report be conducted and published.

The amount of arsenic in Antioch's water ranged from 0-6 ppb, well below the current maximum level of 50 ppb and only slightly above the proposed 5 ppb.

Pit bull attacks dog at Timber Lake Park

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The only thing clear about the dog fight in Timber Lake Park between a Yorkshire terrier and a pit bull terrier is that the Yorkie died as a result of the entanglement.

Both dogs' owners are Chicago residents with summer homes at the park.

Though the Yorkie's owner, Geraldine Greco, was paid restitution in the amount of $620 to cover screen repair, cleaning and as compensation for her dog from William Edwards, owner of the pit bull, she is hopeful the offending dog will be deemed vicious and be destroyed.

She said, "There was no reason for this animal to enter my home. It was horrible to witness this attack. I want everyone to understand this animal is dangerous."

Greco claims that the pit bull broke away from the 17-year-old son of Edwards.

She said, "The son was on a golf cart and had the dog on a leash running to the side of the golf cart. The dog got away from the owner's son and immediately came through the screen and into the family room where my daughter and I were having a cup of coffee."

"First, he attacked and killed my little Yorkie, and then he went after my 10-year-old rottweiler. At that point the boy came in and regained

Brenda Edwards, William Edwards' sister, spoke on behalf of the family owning the pit bull.

She admitted she did not witness the attack and said, "My nephew is 17 years old and was walking the dog on his own. At no time did our dog enter their home. Their Yorkie was prancing at the door. It was their rottweiler that came through the screen. There was blood inside the home because they carried the bleeding Yorkie into the trailer."

Len Hackl, chief animal warden of Lake County Animal and Rabies Control, said, "Normally, cases are pretty clear and we can declare a dog vicious or dangerous, but it's hard when the stories conflict. (Listening to both sides) you wouldn't be able to tell that it was the same incident."

Hackl added, "In cases like this, we would send it to a court and have the judge sort it out. We are forwarding this to Cook County Animal Control because both dog owners are permanent Chicago residents."

Brenda Edwards defended the family's dog, and said, "We've had the dog for about two months. He's a family dog. Between us we have eight kids (ages 4-21) and three dogs. He doesn't bother anyone or anything."

The dog is being held and evaluated for rabies by the Edwards' veterinarian in Chicago for 10 days from the date of the incident.

Teacher selected for training session

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch Community High School (ACHS) teacher Mary Ellen Johnson was selected to participate in the Sustainable Studies Program at the Key Issues II Institute, part of the Keystone Science School in Racine, Wis.

The week-long session was sponsored, in part, through a grant from Monsanto Chemical Company.

"I've been to different programs offered by Keystone. I went to one in Maryland, and one in Colorado on bio-tech (genetic engineering)," said Johnson. "I let them know that I was interested in this one. This is the first time they have offered this particular symposium."

Johnson feels that these symposiums are of great value. "Part of the sustainable urban environment includes infrastructure systems such as water. I teach ecology at Antioch so this is a very important topic whether you are talking about a bigger city or a smaller town," she said.

A total of 15 teachers were selected from across the country to participate in the program.

"The teachers that come to the training bring a cadre of experiences and issues relevant to their communities," said Brooke Carson, director of teacher training for the Key Issues II Institute. "With Monsanto Chemical's support, Mrs. Johnson will be an asset to the program, and I look forward to working with her to help enhance the hands-on experience for students at ACHS."

The science teacher reported that this will help a lot with the activities she does with the students at the high school. "I will incorporate this into the classroom. For example, we will cover how water pollution is affected by growth. We will also look into what happens as industry comes and goes from a community," said Johnson.

"Keystone does this so that teachers can pass information onto their students," explained Johnson. "They quietly do a lot of mediation work in addition to educating teachers."

Johnson commended the program for being top-notch and said that there were Nobel prize winners at the program she attended over Easter.

"It was an awesome program, and Keystone does a great job getting people to put on their programs," she added.

Letter requests change to planning board

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

A letter was read into the minutes of the regular combined planning and zoning board for the Village of Antioch requesting that proposed densities for planned unit developments (PUD) be based on buildable acreage rather than on total acreage.

The letter was sent to board members from resident Marianne Guy. In her letter, Guy said, "The premise of a PUD appears to be good: permit smaller lots to provide more open space. But, the benefit is negated by using total acres to decide number of homes permitted—resulting in an increased number of home sites."

Later Guy explained, "In the past, I've seen some things rubber stamped, and not questioned. I hope my letters, which I also sent to the board members of the village, will raise awareness."

Her letter continued, "I am asking the village board to consider changing the code so density is figured on buildable acres only. This seems so logical and would go a long way toward achieving the lower density outlined for the East Sub Area in the village's master plan."

She continued, "Using the Anest property as an example, at least one-third of the property is unbuildable due to a 47-acre lake, wetlands and a flood plain."

The board thanked her for expressing her concerns.

Auction proceeds fund general operations

Oops, I goofed. In my zeal to make sure I got the word out about the Antioch Rescue Squad's annual auction and the Antioch Lion's Club chicken barbecue that is held in conjunction with the auction, I confused some of the facts.

Rescue Squad Chief Wayne Sobczak said, "No auction money goes toward the new Life Pack monitors (heart monitors and defibrillators). The money raised in the auction is to fund the general operations of the Rescue Squad."

He said, "The portion of the money from the dinners will go toward the goal of paying off the monitors."

In spite of my error in reporting, the event is very worthwhile whether the auction money goes toward the general operations or toward the purchase of new Life Packs.

The Antioch Rescue Squad is a volunteer squad committed to serving the residents of Antioch.

The auction will be held from 11 a.m.-6 p.m. at Williams Park on Aug. 6.

It's the opening weekend for PM&L's comedy "Ah! Wilderness" by Eugene O'Neil at the PM&L theatre at 877 Main St. Show times are 8 p.m. on July 28-29 and at 2:30 p.m. on July 30.

Opening week is said to be known as "hell week" by the directors, actors and production staff.

"It's full of stress, putting finishing touches on the set and costumes and polishing the dialogue. The box office crew is busy taking reservations," said publicity chairman Betty Smouse.

The leading characters are played by Tom Hausman from Antioch, Dee Finley from Round Lake, Mark Fletcher from Grayslake, and Linda and Steve Willding from Lindenhurst.

For reservations call 395-3055 or come to the box office. Tickets are $10 for adults and $8 for students and seniors.

Box office hours are from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, on Saturday from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. and 90 minutes before curtain time on production dates.

SCHOOL DIGEST

School registration

Grass Lake School District 36 will hold registration for the 2000-01 school year on Aug. 2-3 from 1-7 p.m.

All students—former and new—are required to register for the new school year.

New students must present a birth certificate and proof of residency such as a mortgage bill, rent receipt or utility bill showing the correct address at the time of registration.

All kindergarten and fifth-grade students are required to have a physical exam before school begins, and present a physical exam form, signed by the doctor, showing all immunizations received.

The first day of school for first through eighth grade is Aug. 22, and is scheduled as a half day. Kindergarten students begin on Aug. 23.

16-year fugitive found living in Antioch

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Though appearances were no different than that of any other resident living in Antioch, Donald Shannon is far from typical.

Deputy U.S. Marshals Charles Ahmad, Garth Rehberg, Joseph Kimpel and Paul Peroutka came to Shannon's door at 6 a.m. on July 25 to question him about an acquaintance of the man they were looking for: Leonard Rizzo.

"When he answered the door, I was quite certain it was him (Rizzo)," said Ahmad. "As we questioned him, we caught him in a couple of lies, and he admitted he was Rizzo."

Rizzo was a New Yorker with suspected links to organized crime. He disappeared after being charged with selling heroin in 1984.

Drug Enforcement Administration agents charged Rizzo with conspiracy to sell narcotics and possession with intent to distribute heroin. He fled after posting bail before his trial, leaving behind his three children and their mother.

According to Ahmad, he had cleaned up his act which is why he was able to live undetected for so long.

"We found him because he kept ties with friends in New York," said Ahmad.

Rizzo adopted the identity of Donald Shannon once in Illinois. After a working a variety of odd jobs he started his own dog walking and pet care business.

According to Ahmad, federal law enforcement authorities never close fugitive cases.

"A detention hearing will be held on July 28 in front of federal judge Schenkier," said Ahmad. "The hearing will determine whether he will be sent back to New York to face the charges in custody or if he will be allowed to go back on his own."

Ahmad added, "He's been on the run for so long that we will fight very hard for him to be sent back in handcuffs."

Freight train derails

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

A Wisconsin Central freight train derailed at 7:05 a.m. on July 26 before the intersection on Rte. 83 near the Antioch Packing building.

According to Antioch Police Chief Charles Watkins, "Seven cars just kind of fell over with no damage to any of the surrounding area, and there were no injuries."

Fortunately, the accident happened prior to reaching the busy state highway, minimizing traffic delays.

"They (Wisconsin Central officials) think one of the wheels froze up which causes the brake assembly to heat up and drop. When this happens, the assembly splits the railroad ties. The ties hold the rails, and when they split the rails move and the train derails," explained Watkins.

"Our department along with Wisconsin Central will be investigating this further to determine the exact cause. This is preliminary," Watkins continued.

Officials for Wisconsin Central could not be reached for comment.

Special meeting scheduled for July 31

Village attorney Ken Clark brought up the need for the board of local improvements, which is made up of the mayor and the village trustees, to meet for the purpose of hastening the extension of water and sewer to Deercrest and the Anest property where the Neumann Homes development is proposed.

The public hearing is set for July 31 at 7 p.m. at the Village Hall.

The board will discuss condemning four properties for water.

"The vehicle, a 1995 Blazer, was traveling at a high rate of speed. Both victims were ejected from the vehicle. It is a sharp, gradual S curve," Gerretsen said.

The vehicle rolled over, but did not hit anything, Gerretsen said. Police learned of the 4 a.m. accident via a 911 call from passer-by, Gerretsen said.

"It had a somber effect on the department. Tracy is a very well respected member. It's like a family—it is like we grew up together," said Lake Zurich Police Chief William Urry.

"We used the search engine to find soap box derby on the Internet and it led us to a Canadian company. We bought a kit that included wheels, templates and the steering mechanism," explained Mike White. "Then we had to decide on the design and style."

Thirteen-year-old Koutsoures had a different strategy for her winning vehicle. Of her car, "The Leafer 2," she said, "The back wheels are from a golf club caddy, and the handle [serving as a backrest, and the point from which to push start the car] came from a two-wheeler and the front wheels came from 'The Leafer 1' (a car built several years ago with former neighbors)."

According to Porch, every driver wore a helmet. "The helmets were loaned to us (the participants) by Antioch Schwinn," she said.

"People were already asking about signing up for next year before we even started the race," said Porch. "Some of the parents have supplied us with lots of information for next year. Our main goal is to have the race be fun and be safe."

She was seen by police discarding a clear plastic wrapper followed by silver paper out of the driver's side window while stopped at the light at the intersection of Orchard and Main St.

When the light changed, she turned southbound onto Main St. leaving the items as litter.

Beason was very apologetic when police pulled her over.

The officer requested Beason's license for identification, and she said she did not have one because it was revoked. Her identifiers were checked through LEADS and she was placed under arrest when the check confirmed what she had told police.

Beason was issued citations for driving with a revoked license, operating an uninsured motor vehicle and for littering.

She was released on bond pending her Aug. 9 court date in Grayslake.

DUI

Wendy D. Melton, 28, of 26198 Spring Grove Rd. in Antioch was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol on July 22 at 2:19 a.m. at the corner of Toft St. and Lake St.

Police saw an eastbound Chevy Blazer cross the center line and enter the westbound lane about 500 feet in front of the squad car, and reported swerving to avoid an accident.

The squad car turned around and pulled the vehicle over at Toft street.

Police requested Melton's driver's license, and while talking to her smelled a strong odor of alcohol on her breath.

Police asked Melton if she had been drinking and she replied, "Yes, but I only had two beers."

Melton was unable to pass a sobriety test after several attempts. She was placed under arrest and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. for booking procedures.

At the police station, Melton agreed to a breath test. The result of that test was .17 blood alcohol concentration.

Citations were issued for improper lane usage and for driving with a blood alcohol concentration of .08 or more.

Melton was released on a personal recognition bond pending her Aug. 15 court date.

Yvonne M. Allen, 27, of 26476 Shannon in Antioch was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol on July 21 at 10:12 p.m.

Police responded to the area of Rte 173 and Rte. 83 for a possible DUI called in by a complainant.

Upon arrival, police saw a blue Pontiac weaving within its lane as it traveled westbound on Rte. 173. At the intersection of Rte. 173 and Harden, the car crossed the double yellow line and corrected back abruptly and drove across the white fog line.

Police pulled the vehicle over. Allen could neither produce a driver's license nor proof of insurance. Identifiers were checked through LEADS/NCIC/SOS finding her clear with a valid Illinois driver's license.

Allen was unable to pass a field sobriety test that ceased for Allen's safety when she fell against the front of the squad car.

She was arrested and taken to the Antioch Police Dept. where she refused blood alcohol testing.

She was issued citations for improper lane usage, driving under the influence of alcohol and operating an uninsured vehicle.

Allen was released on a personal recognition bond pending her Aug. 15 court date.

Minor consumption of alcohol

Adrian A. Biedzinski, 19, of 1215 Barberry Lane in Round Lake Beach was arrested for unlawful consumption of alcohol on July 21 at 10:42 p.m. at the west municipal parking lot.

The officer observed Biedzinski, known from previous contacts to be under 21 years old, appear to have impaired balance and coordination.

Police spoke with Biedzinski and smelled a strong odor of alcoholic beverage on his breath.

Police asked if he had been drinking, and Biedzinski replied, "I had half of a 40 ounce beer." He said he had consumed the beer while in the Village of Antioch, but would not elaborate. He said that he brought the beer from home.

A preliminary breath test was administered and yielded a blood alcohol concentration of .039.

Biedzinski was placed under arrest for unlawful consumption of alcohol and put through booking procedures.

He was released on personal recognition pending his Sept. 13 court date.

Warrant arrest

Robert L. Glaspie, 41, of 2000 Joppa Ave. in Zion was arrested on a warrant for domestic battery on July 18 at 8:09 p.m. at Pedersen Park.

Police were conducting routine park checks at dusk and saw a car parked in the lot of Pedersen Park, and saw four people fishing on the east side of the park.

Police approached the subjects, told them the park was closed and obtained identification from all of them.

Glaspie came back as being wanted on a warrant for domestic battery through the Lake County Sheriff's Dept. with a bond in the amount of $10,000 with 10 percent applying.

Police took Glaspie through booking procedures and allowed him a phone call to raise bond.

Glaspie's wife arrived with cash bond in the amount of $1,000. Glaspie was released and given an Aug. 2 court date in Waukegan.

SCHOOL DIGEST

School registration

Grass Lake School District 36 will hold registration for the 2000-01 school year on Aug. 2-3 from 1-7 p.m.

All students—former and new—are required to register for the new school year.

New students must present a birth certificate and proof of residency such as a mortgage bill, rent receipt or utility bill showing the correct address at the time of registration.

All kindergarten and fifth-grade students are required to have a physical exam before school begins, and present a physical exam form, signed by the doctor, showing all immunizations received.

The first day of school for first through eighth grade is Aug. 22, and is scheduled as a half day. Kindergarten students begin on Aug. 23.

16-year fugitive found living in Antioch

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Though appearances were no different than that of any other resident living in Antioch, Donald Shannon is far from typical.

Deputy U.S. Marshals Charles Ahmad, Garth Rehberg, Joseph Kimpel and Paul Peroutka came to Shannon's door at 6 a.m. on July 25 to question him about an acquaintance of the man they were looking for: Leonard Rizzo.

"When he answered the door, I was quite certain it was him (Rizzo)," said Ahmad. "As we questioned him, we caught him in a couple of lies, and he admitted he was Rizzo."

Rizzo was a New Yorker with suspected links to organized crime. He disappeared after being charged with selling heroin in 1984.

Drug Enforcement Administration agents charged Rizzo with conspiracy to sell narcotics and possession with intent to distribute heroin. He fled after posting bail before his trial, leaving behind his three children and their mother.

According to Ahmad, he had cleaned up his act which is why he was able to live undetected for so long.

"We found him because he kept ties with friends in New York," said Ahmad.

Rizzo adopted the identity of Donald Shannon once in Illinois. After a working variety of odd jobs he started his own dog walking and pet care business.

According to Ahmad, federal law enforcement authorities never close fugitive cases.

"A detention hearing will be held on July 28 in front of federal judge Schenkier," said Ahmad. "The hearing will determine whether he will be sent back to New York to face the charges in custody or if he will be allowed to go back on his own."

Ahmad added, "He's been on the run for so long that we will fight very hard for him to be sent back in handcuffs."

Freight train derails

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

A Wisconsin Central freight train derailed at 7:05 a.m. on July 26 before the intersection on Rte. 83 near the Antioch Packing building.

According to Antioch Police Chief Charles Watkins, "Seven cars just kind of fell over with no damage to any of the surrounding area, and there were no injuries."

Fortunately, the accident happened prior to reaching the busy state highway, minimizing traffic delays.

"They (Wisconsin Central officials) think one of the wheels froze up which causes the brake assembly to heat up and drop. When this happens, the assembly splits the railroad ties. The ties hold the rails, and when they split the rails move and the train derails," explained Watkins.

"Our department along with Wisconsin Central will be investigating this further to determine the exact cause. This is preliminary," Watkins continued.

Officials for Wisconsin Central could not be reached for comment.

Special meeting scheduled for July 31

Village attorney Ken Clark brought up the need for the board of local improvements, which is made up of the mayor and the village trustees, to meet for the purpose of hastening the extension of water and sewer to Deercrest and the Anest property

where the Neumann Homes development is proposed.

The public hearing is set for July 31 at 7 p.m. at the Village Hall.

The board will discuss condemning four properties for water.

"The vehicle, a 1995 Blazer, was traveling at a high rate of speed. Both victims were ejected from the vehicle. It is a sharp, gradual S curve," Gerretsen said.

The vehicle rolled over, but did not hit anything, Gerretsen said. Police learned of the 4 a.m. accident via a 911 call from passer-by, Gerretsen said.

"It had a somber effect on the department. Tracy is a very well respected member. It's like a family—it is like we grew up together," said Lake Zurich Police Chief William Urry.

"This gives me an opportunity to have a voice in what happens in the community. There has been a lot of discussion about growth, and I'd like to see Antioch keep its small-town feel—though I do understand development is inevitable," said Keller.

"We used the search engine to find soap box derby on the Internet and it led us to a Canadian company. We bought a kit that included wheels, templates and the steering mechanism," explained Mike White. "Then we had to decide on the design and style."

Thirteen-year-old Koutsoures had a different strategy for her winning vehicle. Of her car, "The Leafer 2," she said, "The back wheels are from a golf club caddy, and the handle [serving as a backrest, and the point from which to push start the car] came from a two-wheeler and the front wheels came from 'The Leafer 1' (a car built several years ago with former neighbors)."

According to Porch, every driver wore a helmet. "The helmets were loaned to us (the participants) by Antioch Schwinn," she said.

"People were already asking about signing up for next year before we even started the race," said Porch. "Some of the parents have supplied us with lots of information for next year. Our main goal is to have the race be fun and be safe."

NEW BOOKS AT THE LIBRARY

Omerta
Mario Puzo

Omerta," the third of the Mafia Trilogy begun with "The Godfather" and "The Last Don" (1996), follows a very familiar formula. It is, of course, a crime novel by an acknowledged master of the genre, but though the words "once upon a time" don't appear at the beginning, this is as much a fairy tale in tone and purpose as if they had.

The story follows the career of a young Mafia prince raised by an honorable man, Don Raymonde Aprile, as a much-beloved nephew. Don Aprile's own children have no awareness of their father's business, but Astorre, our prince, not only knows its nature, he is trained to take over. The world of this novel is a violent one, but according to the code of Omerta, the violence and killing are secondary to lapses of honor. A man of honor lives by strict rules and protocols, where treachery may be the worst of all sins. Aprile is betrayed and assassinated, and Astorre exacts justice, a process that takes years of careful and patient planning in which he never loses sight of his honor and ultimate goal.

Everything in this novel is larger than life. Beauty, good, and evil are all bigger, better, or worse than reality, but the need for realism is not what would bring a reader to this novel. It is an engaging story, well told, well written, and thoroughly satisfying, and as the departed Puzo's last book, proves a fitting end to a memorable career. Danise Hoover

Phoenemic program considered for District 34 kindergartners

BY BECKY DUBA
Staff Reporter

Antioch Community Consolidated School District 34 is considering implementing the phoenemic awareness program. For the 2000-01 school year the administration and staff will be looking at the overall program and considering how it would work for District 34.

"The phoenemic awareness program is based off of the Phonological Zoo," said Oakland School principal Stephanie Stoneberg. "It is a guide to basically enhance phonemic awareness in the early stages of reading development."

The program is designed for kindergartners and would be a supplement to the total language arts program.

"It would go hand-in-hand with the current curriculum," Stoneberg said. "It would not replace anything."

She explained that the program stresses noun structures in reading and can be used in both large groups or on an individual basis.

"It's a very unique approach that stresses repeated reading, the singing of nursery rhymes, the retelling of stories, the writing of stories, the repeating of rhymes and word puzzles," Stoneberg said.

Three characters are used to implement the reading process: Funny Bunny, Sally the Spider and Camren the Camel.

A parent in the district who is a teacher for another community informed the district about the program and its benefits.

"We also saw an article about it in the paper and decided to observe the program in the classroom," Stoneberg explained. "We were impressed with the overall program."

Stoneberg added that in the reviewing process, the teachers plan to observe the program at other schools while taking a detailed look at what the plan offers. It has been in place in Vernon Hills for two years.

"Right now we're just looking at the program and it is still just a possibility," Stoneberg added.

NEWSPAPERS

July 28 - August 3, 2000

A new facility for those with developmental, learning disabilities has become the ...

To the naked eye, the one-story brick building at 280 Saunders Rd. in Riverwoods may look like any of the other structures in the area. But to the members inside, it's a dream come true.

The Center for Enriched Living, or "The Center" as it is called, held ribbon cutting ceremonies in June for the $4.5 million facility, which offers life enrichment opportunities for those with developmental and learning disabilities. One month later, the smiles on the faces of those inside bring truth to the saying "a picture is worth a thousand words."

"What we wanted was a building to meet the needs of our members," said director of development Harriet Levy.

"Member" is an important and recurring word to those who operate the center, Levy said. The goal is to make people feel welcome, and not label them with terms like "clients" or "residents."

The roots of this organization can be traced back to Chicago's west side in 1968, when it was known as the Young Man's Jewish Council. In 1984, it became a non-profit center, and the same year the group formed its first board of directors to address the needs of those with developmental disabilities—primarily those with mild to mid-range mental retardation.

The center then leased space in Deerfield in 1987, and in 1994, the board started a long-range planning procedure.

"We met weekly for 2 years," said Levy. Fund-raising, staff, facility and technology issues were discussed in great detail, in hopes of making the agency as effective as possible. Finally, in 1996, board members approved a detailed plan, which included the organization's first fully-owned building in Riverwoods.

"It was very exciting, but it was a little bit scary as well," recalled Levy, who called it a "daunting" project at the time.

All $4.5 million to construct the facility came from private donations, as will about $900,000 in annual operating costs. According to Levy, over 300 donors helped make the center a reality.

"We've been very lucky that people have been generous," Levy said.

Although most members are in their teens or older, people of all ages are welcome, according to director of program services Donna Garfield. About 60 percent of members are residential, while 40 percent come directly from a family. Every program that is offered has a specific goal in mind, whether it is a group or an individual one. In fact, the variety of choices may seem a bit overwhelming.

Adventure camp, teen summer camp, swim programs, fitness, gardening, cooking, field trips, bowling and miniature golf make up only a small percentage of the activities offered at the center. The facility is equipped with a gymnasium, exercise room with stationary bikes (which are always supervised), a lounge room with a soon-to-be donated 54-inch television set, a ping-pong table, locker rooms and a courtyard, complete with a barbecue grill.

The fun doesn't stop there. Levy said the facility was designed to keep the warm atmosphere of home in mind, and it appears to do just that. Hallways are lined with wooden trim to create this feeling, and there is even a room that was designed to simulate an apartment. This feature teaches members who are parents the proper way to care for their children, in an environment that simulates real life—complete with a washer and dryer, dining area, kitchen, bed, closets and a bathroom.

"Here it's hands-on training," said Levy.

The center is expecting an air hockey table soon, and there are board games, a stereo system, chairs and tables, a coat rack, an arts and crafts room, a technology room and a performing arts stage. Levy said staff members could not be happier about the opportunity to provide members with not only an excellent variety of programs, but programs with items that are all brand new.

"Our feet have not touched the ground because we're still floating," she said.

Garfield noted one goal is to make sure members take the connections they make at the center home with them. She told a story about how the lives of many families have been touched by the organization, and how one evening, a phone rang at one of the member's homes, and to the parents' surprise, it was for her.

"It could be the very first phone call that 16-year-old girl has received," said Garfield joyfully.

Unfortunately, the federal government provides no money for the center, something which troubles staff members.

"It's really quite a challenge," said Levy. "The need is evident."

But above all else, the center attempts to provide a place to develop social skills—a place of acceptance and genuine opportunity. Programs are not set in stone—the process is an ever-evolving task. If a member has a new idea, or a suggestion is made to improve a program, the issue is addressed. Many times, new events are the results of members taking an active interest in what they do.

"There really should be a place like this in every state across the country," Levy said.

To her knowledge, no other community/life enrichment center similar to the one in Riverwoods exists.

"Every program is planned," Levy added. "We're here so they have a place to have fun."

Members have come from as far away as Wisconsin and Indiana. Although it is not condoned by any means, Levy and Garfield told a story about one member who enjoyed a Friday night program so much, he attempted to walk there in the rain from his home in Wheeling, to the old location in Deerfield.

The future of The Center For Enriched Living may depend solely on donations, but as long as it exists, there will be opportunities those with developmental and learning disabilities never imagined possible.

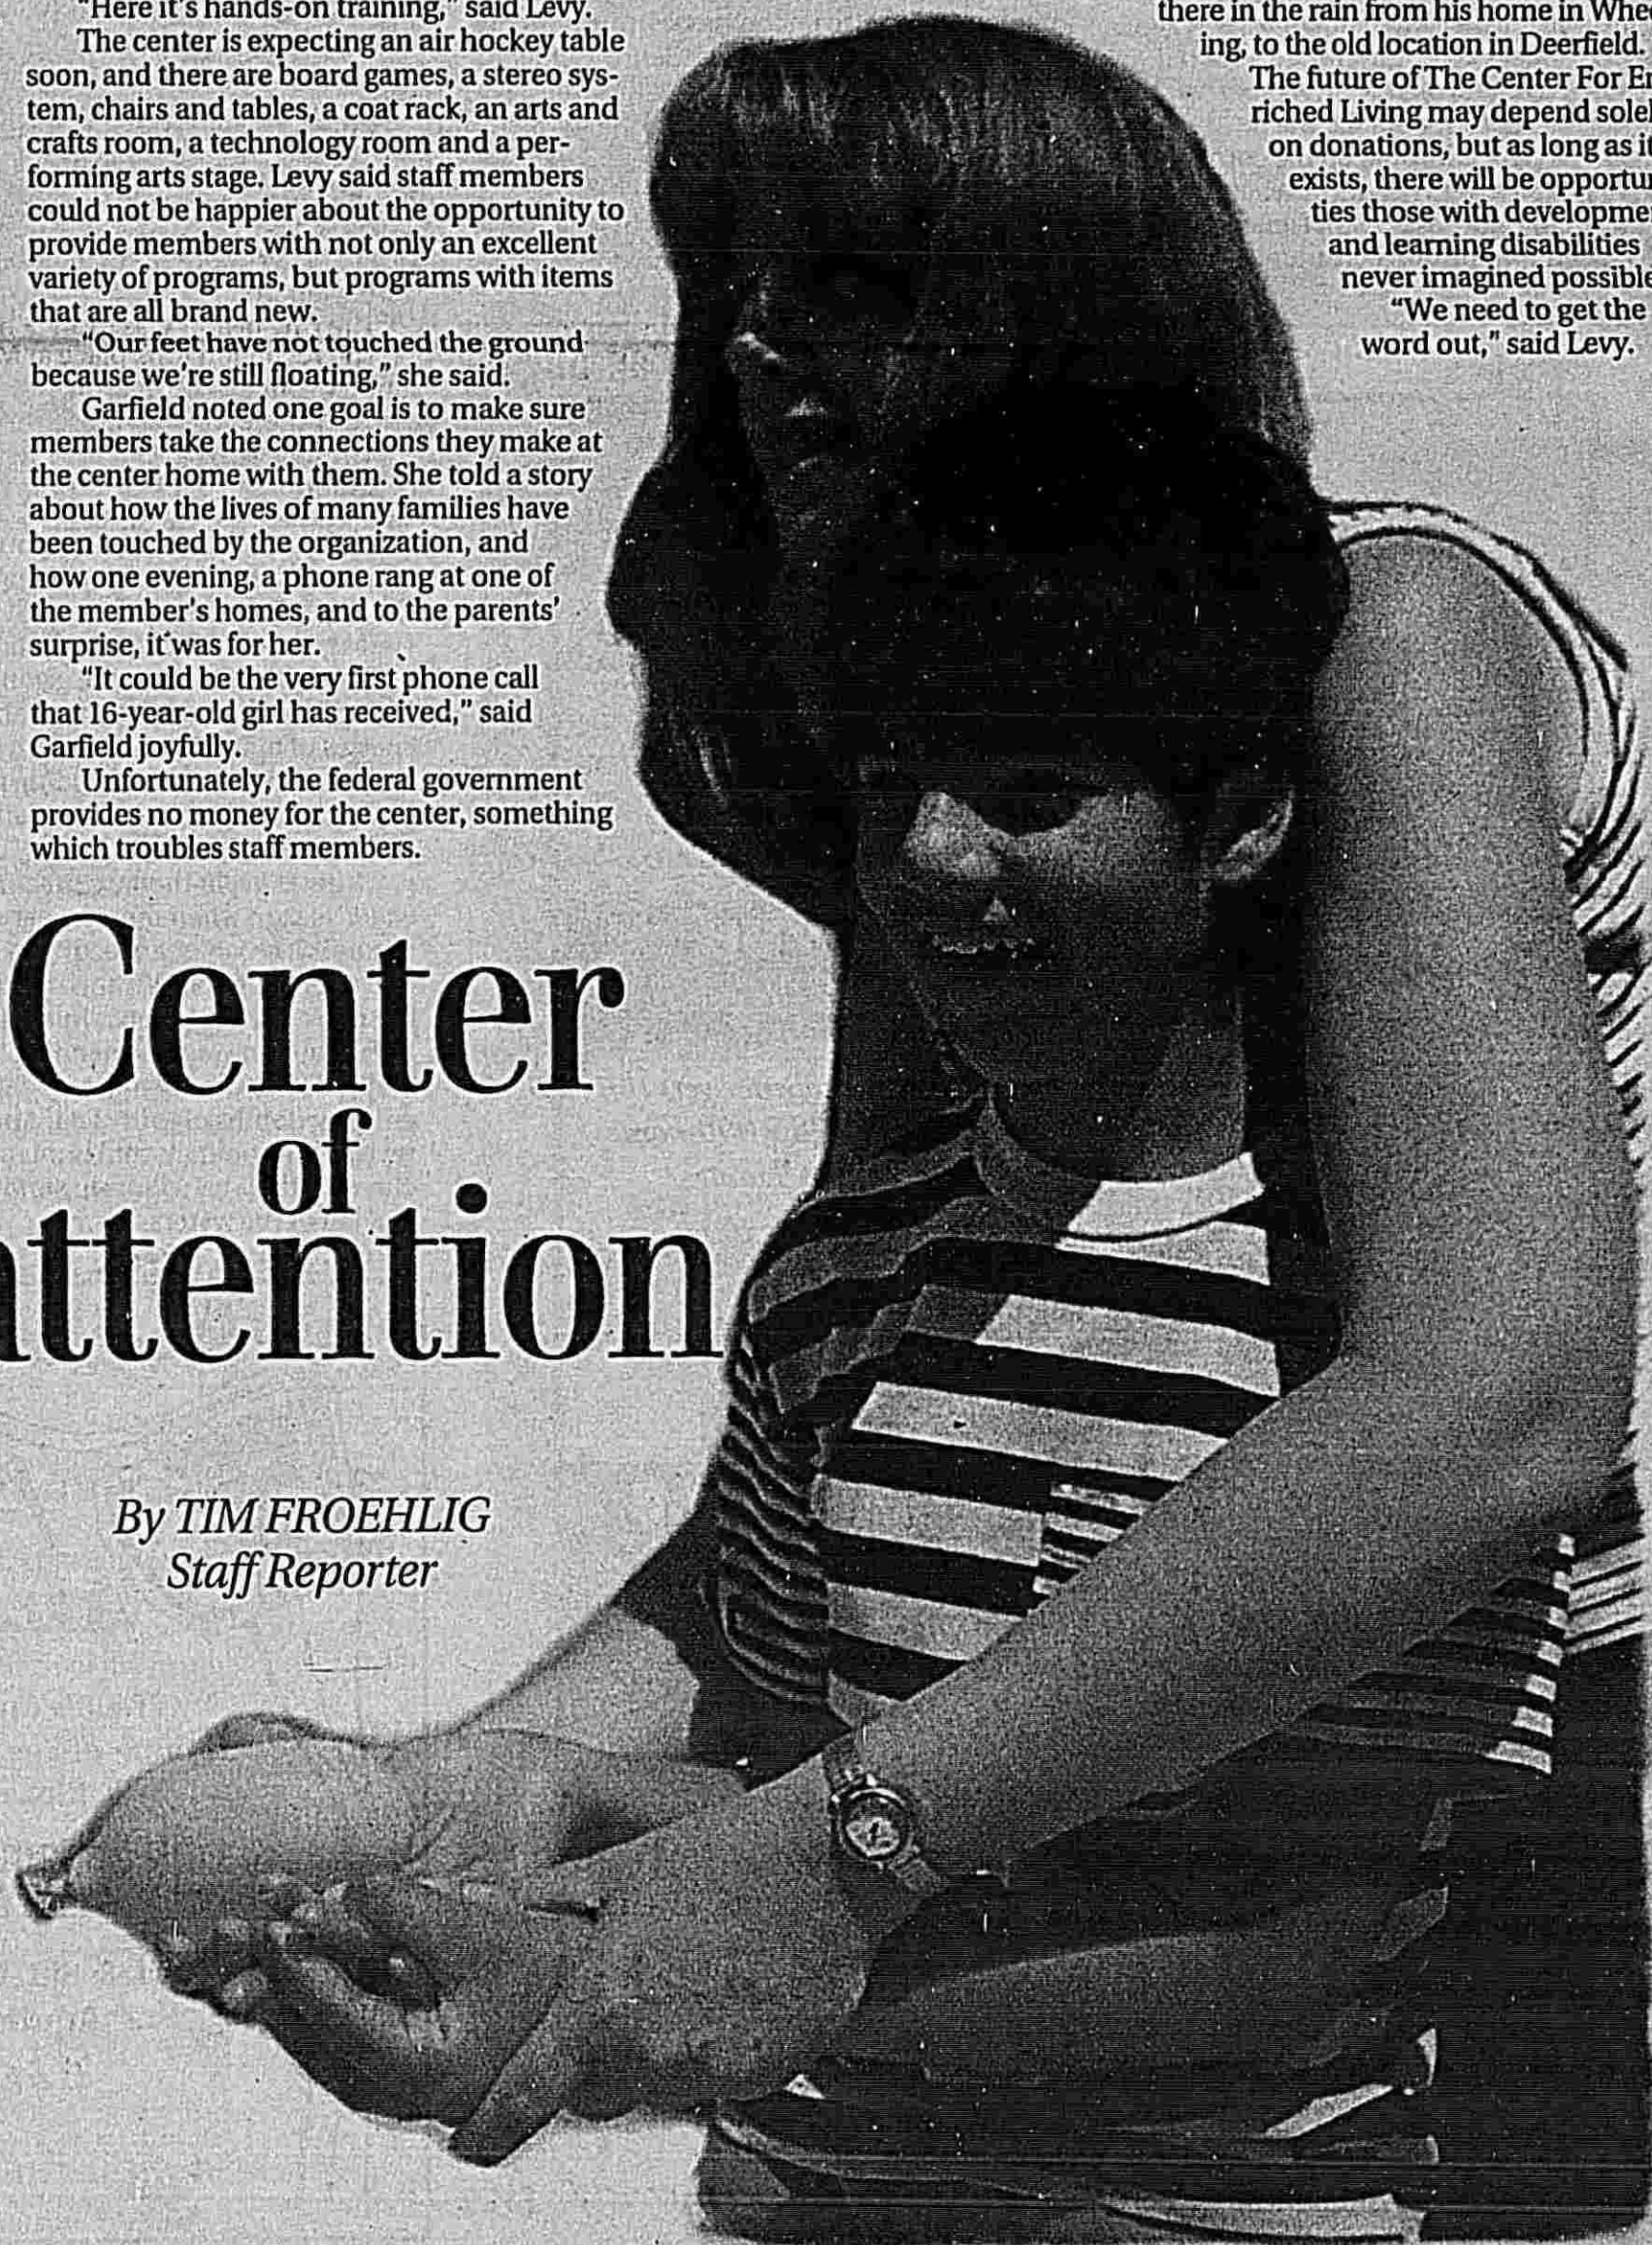

"We need to get the word out," said Levy.

Harry Potter: This wizard's worth the whine

It is true that I have never served in our country's armed forces, especially once I saw the movie "Private Benjamin" and, like Goldie Hawn, gasped in dismay at the fact that there are no condos, draperies or private bathrooms in the army. I am certain that our country is safer without the likes of me defending it, not to mention that I would have gone AWOL the first time anyone mentioned the phrase "drop and give me 50."

On the other hand, as a mother I have fought in and survived many a battle, such as:

The Cabbage Patch Conflict
The Power Rangers Mighty Morphin' Matchup
The Furby Fracas

If there were a Purple Heart for attempting to serve my children's misguided needs beyond the call of sanity, I would have one. I have stood with aching feet in the battle lines, front or otherwise. I have endured waiting for hours in front of a not-yet-open store in the rain at dawn, in order to secure my position against the equally valiant motherly hordes. I have barely survived mass elbowing in order to fulfill my kid's desire to have what they think every other kid in the world has—a toy that will too soon be sharing a place of honor with those dust bunnies

LIFE'S A BEAR

under his bed.

These were not battles fought to preserve any noble cause, of course—they were fought to end whining. I wasn't even fulfilling what I thought was my motherly duty as much as I just got sick of hearing, "Oh, pleeeeeease, Mom! Pleeeeeease, pleeeeeease, pleeeeeease! Joey's getting one..."

I know, I know. We parents should be strong and ignore our children when they beg for something stupid, such as a furry gremlin with batteries who speaks gibberish and belches. But, honestly, whining is a torture that even the toughest parents have trouble enduring. I think our armed forces could do well to look into it as a form of mental combat. Can you imagine how the enemy would react when they hear thousands of troops approaching, all whining at the top of their lungs?

While I'm making excuses, let's not forget how difficult it is to resist the "evil forces" of mass marketing. It's silly to expect our kids not to fall prey to it when we adults are just as vulnerable.

Oh, you don't think we adults are vulnerable? Well, then explain why hundreds of area residents (including me) put our names on a waiting list at Antioch's favorite gag gift store, J. J. Blinks, just so we could own Big Mouth Billy Bass, an animated singing fish. Did we want this singing fish? Heck, yes. Did we need this singing fish? Heck, no. After two weeks, are we big babies still going to play with our fish? Not likely.

Such is the power of marketing—it convinces us to buy silly things we don't need and, in the case of our children, it does so on a pretty regular basis.

That is, until the phenomenon known as "Harry Potter."

Harry Potter, for those of you who somehow missed the hype, is the main character in a series of children books that not only is well-marketed, it is actually wonderfully written, too. The author, J. K. Rowling, has created an instant classic that has caused a sensation throughout the world. The result is that, for what seems like the first time in decades, our children are whining for something we actually want them to have...BOOKS! And, in the case of this latest installment in the series, they are asking for a 700-PAGE BOOK.

That is nothing short of astounding.

Prior to Harry Potter, if we parents had purchased a 700-page book for our children and actually expected them to READ it, they would have locked themselves in their rooms and reported us to the Department of Children and Family Services for child abuse. But here comes Harry Potter No. 4, bloated to the size of "War and Peace," and millions of children are practically salivating to get their hands on it the minute it comes out.

It's about time. Finally, something on my child's whine list worth fighting for. And best of all, thanks to the wonders of the Internet, all I need in the way of weapons are my mouse and internet browser. With one swift click, I pre-ordered Harry Potter No. 4 and received it the day it was released.

Of course, there is one question that begs to be asked when it comes to this book:

Where does a 700-page Harry Potter book sit? Anywhere it wants. With Mom and Dad's blessing.

Bandshell re-dedication postponed again

The Waukegan Park District announced that the Washington Park Bandshell re-dedication has been postponed again due to weather related delays and equipment shipping delays. The original date posted in the June Parks Month calendar was Friday, June 23, then it was changed to Friday, July 21. As soon as there is a final date, the public will be notified. The park is located on the corner of Washington St. and Park Ave. in Waukegan.

The Waukegan Park District, encompassing 46 neighborhood and community parks, serves the culturally diverse community of Waukegan through its traditional and non-traditional parks/sports programming families as well as programs for senior adults. Park District programming also encompasses music, dance and theater through the Jack Benny Center for the Arts, cultural enrichment through the Waukegan Symphony and other quality programs through the Bowen Heritage Circle.

For additional information on the Waukegan Park District and its activities, call the current events line at 360-4700.

Amazon River floods Chicago

It's the enchanted place where the botoes swim and the Mother of Rubber Trees makes her home. It's where the Cobra Grande rules and where hunters know, if they hunt too much, Curupira can steal their soul. It's the place where fish swim among the treetops and people dock their canoes at their front doors. The animal inhabitants are too many to be numbered, but with the ebb and flow of the river, those numbers change as certain as the height and depth of the mighty floodplain forest. It is the Amazon River and now you can experience "Amazon Rising: Seasons of the River," the new permanent exhibit at Chicago's John G. Shedd Aquarium.

From the tiniest to the gigantic, Amazon Rising introduces you to more than 250 species of animals in a dramatic re-creation of the Amazon basin, including piranhas, birds, sloths, insects, snakes, catfish, stingrays and caiman lizards.

Guests begin their excursion in the low-water season when the river stays within its natural riverbanks, collecting in shallow lakes and river channels. Visitors continue through the rainy season, when rainfall drenches the floodplain for weeks, extending the riverbanks nearly twenty miles on each side and creating depths of thirty feet. Amazon Rising reveals how animals and humans have changed their behaviors to survive the rise and fall of the waters.

Peacock Cichlid, one of more than 250 species of fishes, reptiles, amphibians, insects, bird and mammals now on display at Shedd Aquarium.

Visitors to Shedd Aquarium will also learn about the connections between life forms on the Amazon and experience complete ecosystems.

Shedd's 10,000-square-foot Amazon Rising is a permanent exhibit that replaces two galleries of the Aquarium and resides in the south wing of the original building. It is the largest new permanent exhibit since the Oceanarium marine mammal pavilion opened in 1991.

Admission to Amazon Rising is included in the general admission price. Shedd Aquarium offers discounted admission days; call (312)939-2438 for updated information. Advance tickets are available through Ticketmaster: (312)559-0200.

For more information about Amazon Rising: Seasons of the River, check out Shedd's web site at www.shedaquarium.org.

Serpent Safari welcomes new additions to Gurnee

Serpent Safari, located in Gurnee Mills Mall, 6170 W. Grand Ave., Gurnee, welcomes many species of cobras to its indoor zoo. These amazing creatures can be viewed up close and personal every day of the year by taking a special Safari tour through their simulated jungle. "The habitats are at eye level for everyone so viewing is perfect for every age," according to owner Lou Daddono.

Some of the newest reptile guests include the Egyptian cobra also known as "Cleopatra's Asp." It was believed that this species of snake was used by the Queen of Egypt to commit suicide following the Roman invasion of Egypt in 30 B.C.

Also on daily display are the Pakistan and albino monocled cobras. These cobras strike when feeling threatened and can raise their bodies one-third of their total length depending on the level of threat.

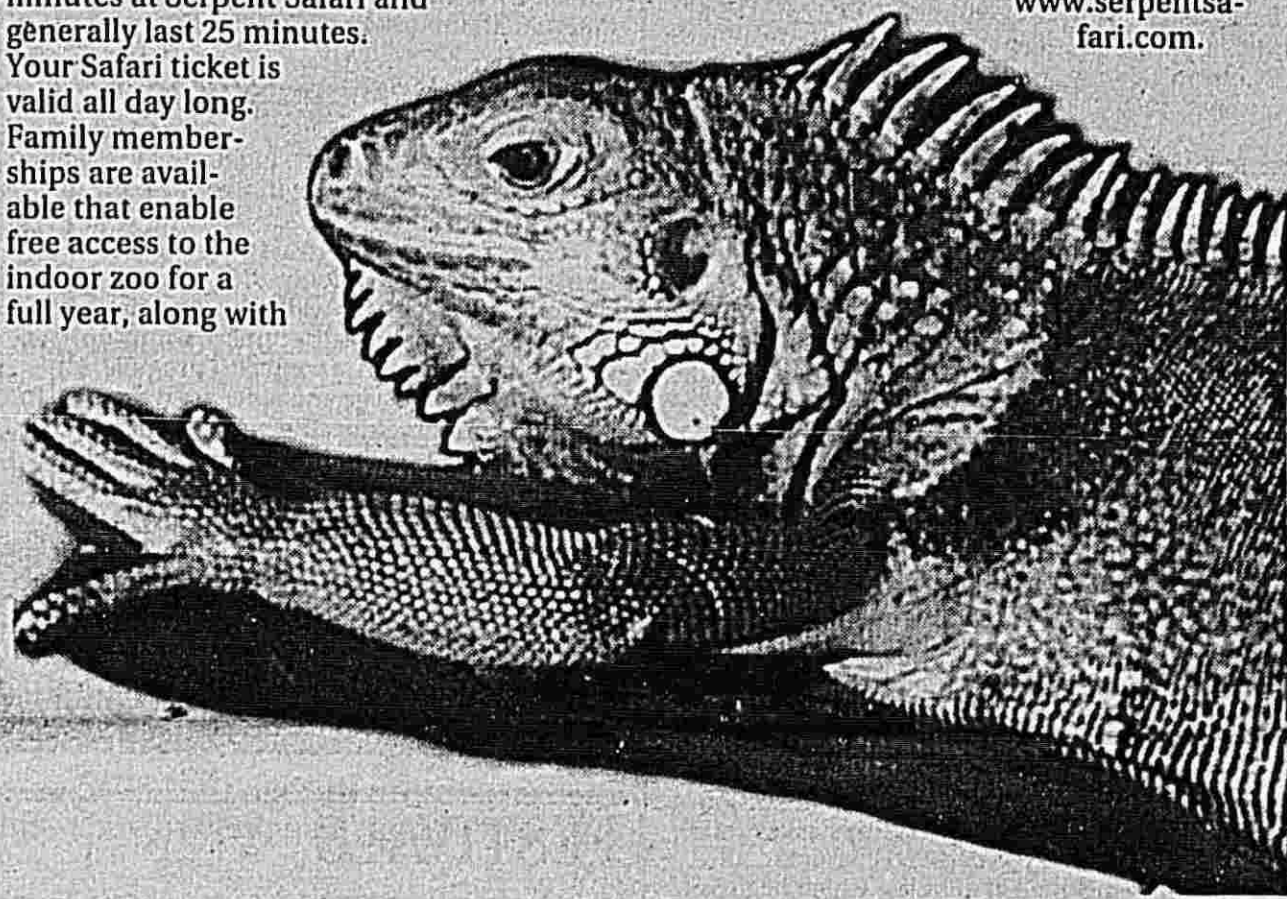

Guided Safari tours begin every few minutes at Serpent Safari and generally last 25 minutes.

Your Safari ticket is valid all day long. Family memberships are available that enable free access to the indoor zoo for a full year, along with discounts on all purchases.

Guests will also view the largest snake in the world according to the Guinness Book of World Records. "Baby" is a Burmese python weighing over 400 pounds and is 27 feet long. Baby is celebrating her 23rd birthday at the end of August. Children under 12 years can register to attend her birthday party being held in Gurnee Mills Mall. Other notable reptile friends to meet at the zoo are a 400-pound Nile crocodile named Cleopatra; Cuddles, the 18-foot anaconda from the movie "Anaconda"; an eastern diamondback rattlesnake; a pair of rare albino iguanas; an albino alligator (only one of five known in the world); the world's only "blue" green tree python; plus another 30 unusual and exotic reptiles.

Experience a Safari today in Gurnee! For more information, call 855-8800 or visit the web site at www.serpentsafari.com.

College-bound students need to register for ACT

The next ACT Assessment will be administered on September 23. College-bound high school students must register for the college admissions and placement exam by a postmark of August 18. There is a late registration postmark deadline of September 1, but an extra fee is charged for late registrations.

ACT scores are accepted by virtually all U.S. colleges and universities, including all Ivy League schools, and are used along with other student information, such as high school grade point average, for admissions decisions and to help place students in appropriate courses for their academic achievement. The test fee is $23.

Students can register for the ACT by getting information from their high school counselors or online at ACT's web site—www.act.org. The web site also has helpful information, sample tests and the opportunity to order test prep materials including an interactive CD-ROM, ACTive Prep, which contains actual, timed tests and helps students build a study plan.

Bannockburn showcases artists

Paintings, pottery, woodcarvings, photography and more will be exhibited by the artists who created the work during the Annual Bannockburn Art Show to be presented by the American Society of Artists, a national membership organization, at Bannockburn Green, Rte. 22 (Half Day Rd.) and Rte. 43 (Waukegan Rd.), Bannockburn. The show begins on Friday, August 4 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and continues through Saturday, August 5 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Other displays will include dimensional mixed media works, metal garden art, wildflower collage, mosaic works, art furniture, oil paintings, woodcarving, ink and prisma color works, wood turnings, copper enamel jewelry and miniature copper enamel "paintings" and even paper maché sculpture.

Art in Action will be included in the show with some of the exhibitors working and demonstrating at various times during the show. Each of the exhibitors will be happy to discuss their work with visitors.

Programs will be available free of charge listing the exhibitors, their media and showing their location on the show grounds.

Additional information may be obtained from the American Society of Artists by calling 991-4748 or (312) 751-2500.

SPECIAL EVENT

Waukegan Park District honors native artist's birthday

The Waukegan Park District invites the public to Jack Hofflander's 80th Birthday Party at the Hofflander Wildflower Refuge at Bowen Park, Greenwood and Sheridan Roads in Waukegan, on Saturday, July 29, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mr. Hofflander, a Waukegan native and a nationally renowned artist, lives in New York. Mr. Hofflander's dream was to create a wildflower refuge at Bowen Park for future generations.

"We are very fortunate that talented Waukeganites like Jack Hofflander hold Waukegan so close to their heart," said Mike Trigg, Superintendent of Parks for the Waukegan Park District. "Mr. Hofflander had this wonderful dream for the park he played in as a child and now the Hofflander Wildflower Refuge is a wonderful reality for the benefit of future generations of Waukegan children."

The Jack Hofflander Wildflower Refuge offers one of the finest displays of wildflowers and wetland plants in the Chicagoland region. Beginning in early spring and continuing through late fall, an ever-changing landscape will greet visitors.

Mr. Hofflander will be on hand for the celebration on the 29th. WPD Landscape architect Steve Wikner will demonstrate proper woodland wildflower planting techniques promptly at 11 a.m. At 11:45, a new bridge that overlooks the waterfall into the ravine will be dedicated. From 1 to 3 p.m., a Retrospective Art Show of Mr. Hofflander's work will be available for viewing at the Jack Benny Center for the Arts. Framed prints from Mr. Hofflander's body of work between 1954 and 1999 will be available for purchase. There will also be a tour of wildflower scenery in the ravine area. For information, call 360-4725.

The Waukegan Park District serves the culturally diverse city of Waukegan through its parks/sports programming for the entire family as well as leisure programming for senior adults. Park District programming encompasses professional music arts instruction at the Jack Benny Center for the Arts, cultural enrichment with the Waukegan Symphony and Concert Chorus, the Bowen Park Opera and Theatre Companies and other educational, historical/craft programs at the Bowen Heritage Circle.

THEATRE

Final show for the season

PM&L's 6th and final show for Season 39 is the comedy "Ah! Wilderness" by Eugene O'Neill. Play dates are July 28, 29, August 4, 5, 11 & 12 at 8 p.m. and July 30, August 6 & 13 at 2:30 p.m. at the PM&L Theatre, 877 Main St., Antioch.

"Ah! Wilderness" affectionately reveals the coming-of-age of a love-lorn turn of the century lad. For reservations call 395-3055 or come directly to the box office starting July 17. Tickets are $10 and $8 for seniors and students. Box Office hours are Monday through Thursday, 5:30 - 7:30 p.m., Saturday 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. and 1 1/2 hours before curtain on production dates.

DANCE

'Puff the Magic Dragon' Dance

The Buoy and Belles Square Dance Club will hold its "Puff the Magic Dragon" dance on Friday, August 4, at the First United Methodist Church, 128 N. Utica St., Waukegan. Plus Workshop begins at 8 p.m. with the Main Stream from 8:30-10 p.m. Cost is $3 per person. All modern western square dancers are invited. For more information, call 746-1461.

Attic Playhouse to present the rock musical 'Hair'

As part of its Studio Series, which encourages new talent and new works, the Attic Playhouse is proud to offer "Hair," opening on Friday, August 4 and running through August 13. Just as the original Broadway production of "Hair" launched the careers of many of today's well-known performers, Attic Playhouse hopes to provide its group of new artist with experience, and to further assist them in pursuit of their careers. This "collegiate" production brings together many talented individuals studying the Arts at various universities, colleges and workshops.

The original Broadway cast recording liner notes describes "Hair" as a story about George Berger, a fury with a fringe on top, who has been thrown out of high school; Claude Hooper Bukowski, Berger's best friend and leader of the pack, who is about to be drafted; Sheila, who lives with both Claude and Berger and is a protester from N.Y.U.; Woof, who has been (understandably) barred from the Y.M.C.A. and has a "thing" about Mick Jagger and Hud, who is really Stokely Carmichael with a sense of humor. Then there's Jeanie, pregnant, in love with Claude and as charming an acid-head as can be found east of Cooper Square; Chrissy and Dionne, Paul, Steve, Suzannah and all the rest of the pro-love and anti-establishment tribe who, in the course of the action, attend be-ins, scare tourists, protest at induction centers, re-create a war or two and otherwise amuse themselves and "Hair" audiences.

Originally, "Hair" opened on Broadway in April 1968 and became the fourth longest running musical of the Sixties. The songs from the show, particularly "Aquarius," "Good Morning Starshine," and "Let the Sunshine In," were heard around the world.

The Attic Playhouse will present "Hair" on Fridays, August 4 and 11 at 8 p.m., Saturday, August 5 and 12, at 5 p.m. and 8:30 p.m., and Sunday, August 6 and 13 at 5 p.m. Tickets are $10 in advance and $12 at the door. Dinner packages are available for $25, dining at the Two Guys from Italy restaurant located in the same building as the theater.

Attic Playhouse is located at 410 Sheridan Rd., Highland. For tickets or further information, please call 433-2660.

Javier Rodriguez; the owner of La Fragua, an authentic Mexican restaurant located at 651 Rte. 134 in Round Lake, brings time-tested Mexican recipes from the area in southern Mexico where he was born and raised on delicious food indigenous to that part of the USA's southern neighbor.

Javier invites his guests to dine on mouth watering beef or chicken Enchiladas, Gorditas, Burritos and Tamales. Rice and beans go with most entrees.

Take a bite out of a scrumptious Shrimp Fajita, or try the Chiles Rellenos, a spicy temptation made with chiles and pepper cheese served over rice, or a tasty Quesadillas, served with fresh lettuce and tomatoes.

Javier invites everyone to dine in the colorful Mexican atmosphere of the restaurant or take your favorite entrees home for dinner.

'X-Men' dazzles with plot over special effects

Stan Lee created the Marvel comic book series X-Men during the tumultuous 1960s. 37 years later it has hit the big screen with a bang, grossing $57.5 million in its opening weekend. After seeing "The X-Men," I can tell you it is worth the wait.

The number one reason to go see this movie is the special effects. But unlike other summer blockbusters, the effects in "The X-Men" serve a purpose.

Recent films ("Mission Impossible 2," "Star Wars Episode I: The Phantom Menace") were made exclusively to show-off special effects. Entire scenes are built around who can out-computerize or out-stunt the other film maker. Even though these are good movies, there is always that feeling that directors and producers are just trying too hard with the special effects, while forgetting about storyline. This is not found in "The X-Men," directed by Bryan Singer.

Now, why do the special effects in "The X-Men" work verses in other movies? Because there is a plot in this sci-fi action-adventure flick to warrant them.

The plot appears very basic on the surface—the classic fight of good verses evil between Charles Xavier (Patrick Stewart) and Magneto (Ian McKellen). But, their fight pulses from the sub-plot of intolerance of the genetic mutants.

During the first 30 minutes of the film, we are introduced to Dr. Jean Grey (Famke Janssen). She is addressing Congress, pleading with them not to pass a law that all mutants must be registered, arguing that the law would cause great discrimination against them. Up pops Senator Kelly (Bruce Davison) to combat her statements. He gains the support of the Senate and all listening except for Xavier and Magneto.

Magneto sees a war coming between humans and mutants where Xavier sees education, of both sides, as the key to acceptance. Thus begins the movie.

There is notable character development between Wolverine (Hugh Jackman) and Rogue (Anna Paquin) that leaves other characters like Storm (Halle Berry) and Cyclops (James Marsden) left in the dust. This might anger die-hard fans, but we can only hope for a sequel.

Jackman definitely radiates throughout with his rustic, loner attitude. But, his character, like all anti-heroes, has a warm, do-good heart. His bantering between Cyclops is classic and by the end of the film you want Wolverine to deck the bossy geek.

On the opposite side, there's Mystique (Rebecca Romijn-Stamos) and her blue coated skin. She's the ultimate bad girl that gets paired off fighting Wolverine. Who else could handle her?

Toad (Ray Park) also adds great humor with his facial reactions while jumping on people to knock them out or using his tongue flinging, goo spitting mouth. He has a few well placed sarcastic comments to boot.

Tyler Mane's performance as Sabertooth deserves mention as an accurate portrayal of the big brute he always was.

Outclassing recent comic book movies by far, I need to repeat myself and tell you to go see it for yourself. Though it is not on the same level as "The Matrix" it shadows as a close second, earning four popcorn boxes.

Chicken Run This film's co-directors Nick Park and Peter Lord have not disappointed. Borrowing unabashedly from "The Great Escape" and "Starlag 17," each frame of this claymation feature is filled with details both charming and entertaining. Yankee chicken Rocky (Mel Gibson) helps a flock led by Ginger (Julia Sawalha) escape death by pot pie. The characters are, as with all Park's creations, rich in expression and personality. "Chicken Run" is destined to become a family classic. Five popcorn boxes. —Brenda Beitscher ter: a crusty but benign someone named Russ who, through some unforeseen circumstance, rights his ways before its too late. Though he is very good at the image consulting he does, the relationships he has with the people around him, including strangers, are less than good. The arrival of young Rusty (Spencer Breslin) prompts Willis to believe he is having a breakdown. Willis then discovers that Rusty is himself at age 8. He begins trying to figure out why the boy has come to him, and what he needs to change. This film is fun and entertaining and should be seen by anyone who is in the 40-year-old range. Three and a half popcorn boxes. —Bob Warde

Gone In 60 Seconds To best enjoy "Gone In 60 Seconds," take the bus or drive the beater and leave the good car locked in the garage at home. Randall "Memphis" Raines, played by Nicholas Cage, is a retired car thief of legendary notoriety. He abandoned his life of crime long ago, but gets sucked back into his old life after his kid brother (Giovanni Ribisi) botches a high stakes caper. In spite of flaws with the plot and character development, the movie is an enjoyable way to spend a couple of hours. Three and a half popcorn boxes. —Julie Murphy

Mission: Impossible 2 It's amazing how utterly dissimilar "Mission: Impossible 2" is from the original, despite both featuring scripts by Robert Towne. Maybe it is John Woo makes all the difference. Woo is famous for his slow-motion action sequences, which are prevalent in "M:I 2." The movie, starring Tom Cruise as secret agent Ethan Hunt, is filled with numerous action scenes including shoot-outs and motorcycle chases, which are some of the best action sequences ever seen. Four and a half popcorn boxes. —Rob Backus

The Patriot The rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air... Director Roland Emmerich has a new all-American classic with "The Patriot." Set in 1776, the story focuses on the trials of one South Carolina family, led by patriarch Benjamin Martin (wonderfully portrayed by Mel Gibson), during the American Revolution. The story goes much deeper than the war, as it tackles such issues as duty to country versus family, loyalty and trust. For the story and the wonderful actors who bring it to life. Four popcorn boxes. —Michelle Habrych

ANSWERS

Aries — March 21/
April 20

Keep your opinion to yourself when a close friend reveals his or her immediate plans. Voicing your disagreement only will make this person mad. Besides, he or she won't listen to you anyway. A loved one introduces you to an interesting person late in the week. Get to know him or her better, because this could be the one.

Taurus — April 21/May 21

Don't be stubborn when a co-worker offers you advice on how to handle a difficult situation. This person just wants to help. If you listen to what he or she has to say, you'll realize that it's a very good idea. That special someone has a surprise for you late in the week. Enjoy!

Gemini — May 22/June 21

You have a busy week ahead of you, Gemini. So, don't get distracted by that special someone. Get all of your work done before going out with this person. He or she will understand and will be impressed by your determination. Sagittarius plays an important role on Thursday.

Cancer — June 22/July 22

Don't let a minor disagreement with a loved one get you upset early in the week, Cancer. This person doesn't mean to upset you; he or she only wants to give you some constructive criticism. If you stay calm and listen to what he or she is saying, you'll realize that it is good advice.

Leo — July 23/August 23

A minor problem at work puts you on the sidelines for a while. Don't get upset. No one blames you or thinks less of you because of this. So, just try to relax, and take everything in stride. A good friend asks you for romantic advice. Be honest with him or her — even if what you have to say won't be appreciated.

Virgo — Aug 24/Sept 22

Be on time for a financial meeting this week, Virgo. Tardiness will cost you access to a potentially lucrative opportunity. You don't want to let this slip away. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify your relationship. Say yes, because this is what you want too.

Libra — Sept 23/Oct 23

When it comes to your career, you have to make an important decision late in the week. You've been putting this off for a while; you can't delay any longer. Look at all of the pros and cons, and think about what is best for you. Turn to a loved one for advice if you need it. Leo plays a key role.

Scorpio — Oct 24/Nov 22

You have a lot on your schedule early in the week, Scorpio, but don't use that as an excuse to avoid a close friend. You must talk with this person and tell him or her exactly how you feel. It's the only way to keep your relationship strong. An acquaintance asks to borrow money. Say no, because he or she isn't reliable.

Sagittarius — Nov 23/Dec 21

When talking with a loved one about a family matter this week, don't beat around the bush. You have to be blunt to get your point across. This person will appreciate your frankness. That special someone needs your help with a personal matter. Do what you can for him or her.

Capricorn — Dec 22/Jan 20

A co-worker introduces you to an interesting person early in the week. While you're nervous to meet him or her, try to stay calm. If you just be yourself, you're sure to make a good impression. A loved one drops by unexpectedly on Wednesday. Listen to what he or she has to say.

Aquarius — Jan 21/Feb 18

When it comes to a business outing, do your best to convince a co-worker to attend. He or she needs to get out. While getting this person to say yes won't be easy, you certainly are up to the task. A family friend asks for your advice about a personal matter. Be honest with him or her.

Pisces — Feb 19/March 20

While you would like to help reconcile close friends who get into an argument this week, Pisces, don't get involved. Your input only will make matters worse. Besides, this is something that the two of them need to work out on their own.

Free wildbird garden trees

Ten free wildbird garden trees will be given to each person who joins The national Arbor Day Foundation during July 2000. The free trees are part of the non-profit Foundation's Trees for America campaign.

The ten trees are the Red Oak, Sargent Crab, Washington Hawthorn, 2 Redcedars, Bur Oak, Arrowwood Viburnum, 2 Canadian Hemlocks and Gray Dogwood. "These trees and shrubs provide cover, nesting sites and food for more than 100 bird species," John Rosenow, the Foundation's present, said.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between October 15 and December 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

Members also receive a subscription to the Foundation's colorful bimonthly publication, Arbor Day, and The Tree Book with information about tree planting and care.

To receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Wildbird garden Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by July 31.

Two-wheeled vehicles aid Antioch Police

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

According to police Chief Charles Watkins, the police department's two-wheeled vehicles make the police department more effective.

"This is the third summer we've had an officer patrol the downtown business district on bicycle," said Watkins. "We used to get a lot of complaints from shoppers and businesses who were brushing up with kids on bikes. Those have diminished since we've had officer Mark Stahl patrolling the area."

Two Harley-Davidson motorcycles have also been making a positive impact. These vehicles were obtained through a grant offered by Harley-Davidson based out of Milwaukee, Wis.

Officer Steve Hayes, who is also the school liaison officer, is assigned to one of the motorcycles.

"We use the motorcycles for neighborhood and park patrols as about 90 percent of their use," said Watkins. "Motorcycles are a more personal approach to the neighborhood patrol."

He adds, "The motorcycles are what we send to neighborhoods having problems with people speeding through them."

Watkins said because the bikes—both bicycle and motorcycles—are community service and public-oriented, people feel more comfortable approaching these officers. He added that these officers also have a little more time to field questions residents may have.

"Both officers have a lot of experience working with kids, and this is good," said Watkins. "It's good for our officers to get along well with them."

Stahl has put 11,000 miles on his 10-speed while patrolling downtown, and averages four to five traffic tickets a week, according to Watkins. "He wore out his old bike last year, and we had to get him a new one. Antioch Schwinn was really good to us and split the cost so it wouldn't be so expensive to set him up with a good bike."

Watkins concluded, "These (two-wheelers) are an asset to our police department."

A different way of life, or summer vacation part 2

We journeyed up to Canada to visit relatives a short while ago. Now although some Canadians live in normal, civilized communities much like Chicago and Antioch, my sister-in-law doesn't happen to be one. She and her family reside 200 miles north of absolutely nowhere and commune quite respectfully with all sorts of Mother Nature's creatures. Fortunately, other than the 100 miles of washed out road, this trip was more civilized as they just moved into town—and I use the term loosely.

A trip for the daily paper now takes only five minutes, instead of three hours. Of course the store owner opens whenever he feels like it, and on Sunday morning all they had were Tuesday and Saturday papers. TV and radio consist of only one station, and it alternates between French speaking commentators and sports coverage. The town's sole recreation is fishing. "So," I inquired to a native, "what does one do in this booming metropolis if it's raining?" He looked at me as if I had three eyes on my forehead and said, "We go fishing."

Like a little rain could in any way impede their sole purpose for living. My nephew had a soccer game, and as we pulled up to watch him play, we noticed the field's grass was knee-high!

Looked as if George, the guy who was supposed to cut the grass, heard the lake trout were biting up yonder and off he headed. They just placed extra cones around the perimeter of the field and thought nothing of it. There are only five bowling lanes so you have to call and reserve one. When we called to do just that we were told the owners went on a "fishing holiday," so they just closed up shop.

Then came the "Harry Potter" ordeal. Our eldest daughter, a Potter fan, was a bit perturbed that her imbecile parents picked the week the fourth book was being released to head up to God-forsaken nowhere. She just knew that by the time we returned to the United States, every last copy of the precious book would be gone, rendering her the only American under the age of 21 without a copy. Lo and behold, the tiny little book store in town had a dozen copies of the publication collecting dust in a back supply room. Had I not asked the proprietor about the book, I would have never even known they possessed it.

"Oh you Yankees and your obsession to collect things," she muttered. She also mumbled how her monthly shipment of "Maple" Beanie Babies, which she sells for $9.95

Canadian dollars (which is about 33 cents in American money), was snatched up by those darn Americans quicker than she could sign for them.

Unfortunately we weren't there on the right day, or I could have easily paid for our girls' college education with what I could have sold them for in the states.

A toothless woman, who looked to be about 112 years old and smelled like fish, sitting behind the counter, said she heard the custom agents at the border confiscated the little stuffed animals from the Americans and then chopped their heads off. This caused me a great deal of anxiety, having dealt with customs agents on a regular basis, I wasn't sure if it was the Americans or the Beanies that were unceremoniously having their heads removed.

It's no wonder you can hear the steady drone of our national anthem permeating the air space just south of the border as you re-enter the States.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Neighborhood Park Watch deters crime

The Eagle Eye Neighborhood Park Watch program was unveiled in three Illinois communities by Illinois Attorney General Jim Ryan, honorary chairman of the program and Dr. Ted Flickinger, executive director of the Illinois Association of Park Districts.

"The Eagle Eye Neighborhood Park Watch program is designed to bring communities together to deter crime and ensure that parks are a safe haven for our children. It is a cooperative effort among park districts and recreation agencies, schools, local police and community residents to promote safety and decrease vandalism," said Ryan.

"In this exciting new program, community residents assume more responsibility for watching over their own neighborhood parks. They report unusual activities and damage to park equipment," said Flickinger.

Children participate in the Eagle Eye Neighborhood Park Watch program with its eagle mascot, "Seemore." Park district staff and Seemore visit schools and recreation sites to teach children to be observant and responsible park patrons and to let their parents know if they see wrongful activities at the park.

The program is available to park districts and forest preserves throughout the nation, and is sponsored by the Illinois Association of Park Districts and Friends of Illinois Parks. The Neighborhood Eagle Eye Watch program introduced at the Pleasure Driveway and Park District of Peoria, the Rockford Park District and the Naperville Park District is expected to be adopted by park districts across the state.

For more information about the Eagle Eye Neighborhood Park Watch program, call (217) 523-4554.

IDOT alerts drivers of summer hours

The Illinois Department of Transportation is alerting motorists that highway maintenance workers are now working summer hours and will be working on the state's highways earlier than usual.

Crews started working the 6:30 a.m.-3 p.m. summer schedule in June and will continue to work those hours through Sept. 15. This schedule will minimize the worker's exposure to the peak hot summer hours and high humidity.

Motorists should be aware that highway patching, roadside mowing and other maintenance activities will begin earlier and could be encountered during the morning commute to work. The earlier starting time also moves the crews' lunch break to mid-morning. Motorists should be aware this is in keeping with the summer work schedule.

The price is right

While much of the hype and focus for last week's U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship at the Merit Club seemed to center around Michael Jordan's appearance Tuesday and the week-long promotions for juniors, you still couldn't have had a tournament without the services of a few select people-1,500 to be exact.

Introducing the volunteers, coming to a concession stand or parking lot near you.

Area residents and golf enthusiasts got a chance of a lifetime by offering their services for how many ever shifts they wanted during last week's championship.

"I'm having a great time and the people are very friendly," said Diane Faria of Libertyville, who was working in the Merchandise Center. "This is my first time doing this but after this week, I'll definitely do it again if given the opportunity. The tournament's been great for the community." Faria's husband, David L., was also a volunteer, working admissions.

And for the price-which was $90 to volunteer-you can't beat it!

For starters, a reasonable 90 clams gets you admission to the tournament all week, which pretty much supersedes the value right there. Volunteers also received two U.S. Open golf shirts, a hat, two pins, a vest, volunteer parking and paid meals during work shifts.

Once 'inside the ropes, getting close to the players and action was a rare opportunity in itself.

"It was a heck of an opportunity to see how a national tournament operates," said Steve Wapon of Wilmet.

Wapon, the head girl's golf coach at Antioch Community High School, volunteered as a greens reporter, which receives the players' scores from walking scorers and reports them to the Scoring Center using hand-held computers.

"It was also a real treat to see the action up close," added Wapon. "It gave our girls a chance to see how good golf is."

Wapon makes inference to six of his players, who all volunteered 3-4 days during the event, serving as either standard bearers or greens reporters. They included sophomores and perspective varsity members Danielle Nielsen, Erin Nobler, Candace Hill, Renee Ramirez and Maggie Ludwig.

Carrie Cybul, who graduated last year and was one of the top players for Wapon, also volunteered as a greens recorder.

And for those inquiring minds, standard bearers were responsible for carrying standards to indicate the players position to par. A standard bearer is assigned to each group.

Other volunteer positions available for a golf tournament include marshals, parking attendants, walking scorers and general assistance in the Media Center.

And oh, it was just learned that all of those who volunteered for the event get yet another chance of a lifetime. They have been invited to play the Merit Club-sometime in September, I am told.

Sounds like a gig I could definitely get into. Playing the Merit Club far exceeds the $90 fee for being a volunteer. At least in my mind. And I'm sure those 1,500 or so will agree come September.

• On a related note, since the Merit Club is close to the Gurnee and Libertyville borders, let's put an end to the confusion. The Merit Club technically is located within the municipal borders of Gurnee. Granted, the club acquired a Libertyville mailing address when it first opened in 1992.

"The confusion has been with the U.S. government-designated post office of Libertyville, which has been in existence for the 35 years I have owned the property," said Getz Sr., Chairman of the Merit Club.

The Village of Gurnee has provided municipal services, such as police, fire, paramedics and public works, to the club since it opened.

"We want everyone to recognize that the Merit Club is in Gurnee," said Gurnee Village Trustee Don Rudny. Any further questions!

Webb's victory caps a Meritorious week

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Being inducted into the Hall of Fame is an honor many, whatever their respective sport, wait a lifetime for.

Not Karrie Webb.

Webb definitely put an exclamation mark on being the 'Tiger Woods' of the LPGA Tour Sunday after firing a final round 1-over-par 73 to claim the U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship at the Merit Club in Gurnee. Her four-day total was 6-under 282 and the victory was her third in the last four major tournaments.

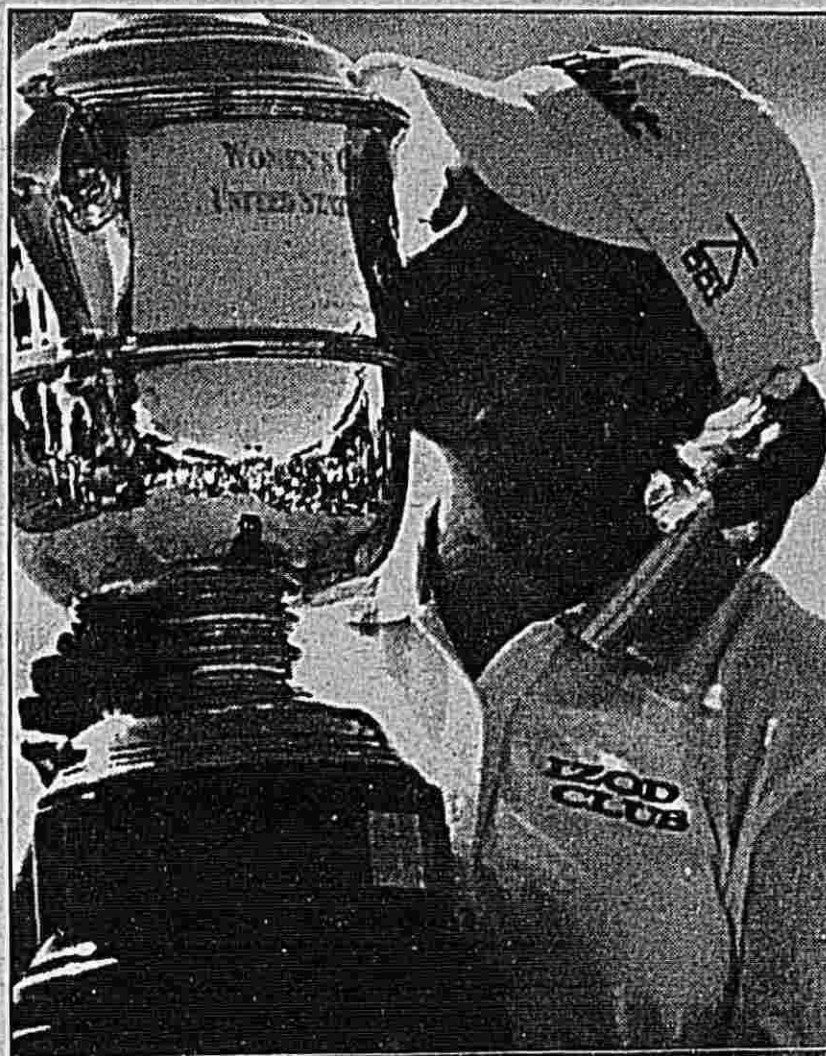

"It's really unbelievable what he's done," said a teary-eyed Webb on being compared to Woods and his accomplishments at such a young age. "But my ultimate goal and focus was to win the U.S. Open this week."

In fact, Webb has a leg up on Tiger. That's because, with her 20th career victory Sunday, the 25-year-old Australian earned enough points to qualify for the LPGA Hall of Fame. Only she won't be inducted until after playing 10 years on the tour (this is her fourth).

"I don't think that's sunk in yet," said Webb on earning enough points for The Hall. "I look back every year and can't believe what I've achieved in such a short time."

Webb's victory though wasn't without a serious challenge from former Open champ Meg Mallon of Ocean Ridge, Fla. Mallon wound up tied for second with Cristie Kerr of Miami, Fla. at 1-under 287.

Webb held a three-shot lead going into the par-3 151-yard 7th hole-until she knocked her tee shot into the water fronting the green. After a double-bogey 5, the lead was down to one. Mallon then tied Webb for the lead at 4-under after draining a 30-footer for birdie on the 412-yard par-4 9th hole.

resident of Bradenton, Fla., finished tied for 40th at 300.

"Attitude is the key," she said. "What I'd like to forget is the fact that I'm 14. I just try and go out there and play my best."

"So far, so good," said Merit Club President Ed Oldfield during Friday's second round. And when the tournament concluded, "We're very proud to have hosted this event," he said. "We received a lot of national and international coverage. Now, everyone knows what the Merit Club is all about."

But Webb regained the lead for good with a birdie of her own on the 410-yard par-4 10th hole. And as Cheech Marin, or Romeo, said in the movie Tin Cup, 'sometimes par is good enough to win!' While Mallon somewhat self-destructed with three straight bogey's soon after, Webb hit the fairways and greens en route to a 2-under-par 34, including a fitting six-foot birdie putt on the home hole.

"I felt I had the game to keep it together when it felt at times like things were slipping away," reflected Webb after making the double on the 7th hole.

Defending champion Julie Inkster of California was in the hunt after an opening round 2-under-par 70 but dropped into a tie for 23rd after a closing 80.

Betsy King, one of Merit Club President Ed Oldfield's former pupils, was a shot off the lead after 36 holes but because of a back injury during Saturday's third round, settled for a tie for 40th place.

"One shot off the lead going into the weekend, I couldn't pull myself to withdraw," said the 23-year veteran who pulled a muscle on her tee shot on the second hole Saturday. "I don't think it's anything too serious."

On the local scene, Chicago's Jennifer Feldott missed the 36-hole cut (150) after carding rounds of 83-74. Madison's Sherri Steinhauer (153) and Racine's Breinnan Pirk (165) also missed the cut.

Tour players have a friend in HealthSouth

By STEVE PETERSON

Whether it be an early-season tournament in January or an end-of-the-year event in November, a professional golfer can count on HealthSouth providing needed equipment for golf's small and not-so-small injuries.

"We started with the women's tour in 1993-94. Dr. Jim Andrews, an orthopedic surgeon, came up with the idea. We are on the road with the tour at each stop," said Doug Miller, coordinator of HealthSouth in Chicago, based out of Arlington Heights.

A large van was placed near one of the entrances for the 55th running of the U.S. Women's Open at the Merit Club in Gurnee.

"We service all three tours, the regular, senior and LPGA. Earlier in the week, players are taking care of nagging injuries, with stretching, and all kinds of backs and knees injuries," added Miller.

The type of injuries Miller and his staff treat depend on several factors, including weather, terrain and swing. The facility has about $50,000 worth of equipment, from aerobics to treadmills, stationary bicycles and Swiss balls and rollers and free weights.

"We can have eight to 10 players at a time in here. The players are great and very appreciative of the service," Miller said.

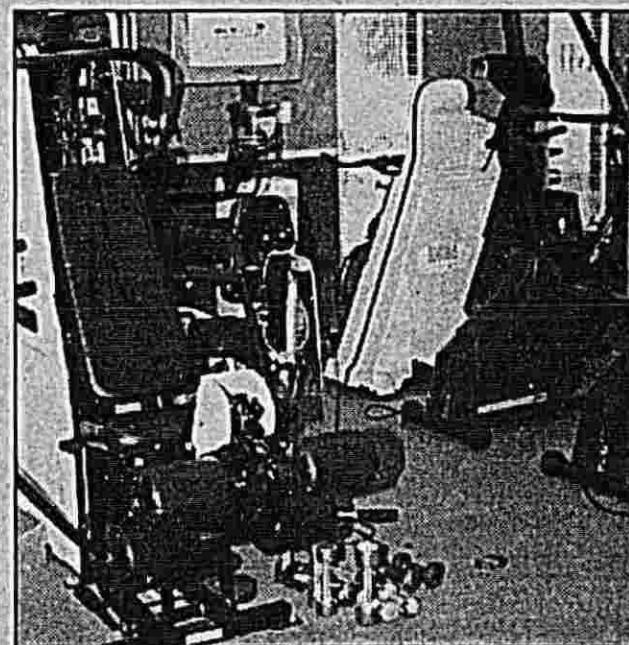

"It is great that the service is here every tour site," said player Janice Moody, as she worked out on a stationary bike. "I come here four times a week."

Miller said younger players should "just swing freely and have fun. Flexibility is the big factor. In this society, more people are sitting down on the job than standing up," Miller said.

Strains to the forearm, wrist injuries and lower back pains are commonly treated.

Miller, who knows many players on the ladies tour by their first name, joked some do come in and ask to "have a couple of strokes taken off their game."

The van is at amateur and sectional tournaments as well.

Jones' game Rosie but still searching for first major

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

After a 1-over par 73 in the opening round of the US Women's Open on July 20 at Merit Club in Gurnee, Rosie Jones appeared annoyed with her play.

Last week's play at Merit Club marked the first opportunity to play the course for the 40-year-old resident of Atlanta, Ga.

"[Merit Club] has a beautiful layout," said Jones. "But it's very taxing off the tee if you're not straight. You need to be accurate to have a chance at birdies and pars."

Jones came into the tournament on a relative hot streak after two top-5s in her last five tournaments including a fourth place finish at the Rochester International on June 11 and a second place finish at the Big Apple Classic on July 16.

Although Jones has yet to win a tournament in 2000, she does have 10 career tournament victories. Jones has yet to win a major, making her the top player in LPGA history to not capture a major tournament championship.

It's not for lack of trying as Jones had nine career top-5 finishes in major championships coming into the open. She came closest in 1990 with a second place showing in the LPGA Championship and in 1984 with another second place showing in the US Women's Open.

"It just hasn't happened for me," said Jones. "I've made good runs, it's just one of those things I haven't been able to capture."

Well, Jones had another close call with an even-par 288, good enough for a fourth-place tie with Mi Hyun Kim and a $120,119 payday to put her at $382,413 for the 2000 season.

Following her opening round play, Jones said, "If I can keep it right around par, maybe two or three under, I'll be right there."

If it wasn't for Karrie Webb's 6-under par 282, Jones would have been right.

Still, Jones appeared to be relatively happy with her tournament play on July 23.

"I'm getting closer," said Jones.

Jones will continue her quest for that ever-elusive major at the du Maurier Classic at the Royal Ottawa Golf Club in Aylmer, Quebec, Canada from August 10-13 and in the LPGA Championship at the Columbia Edgewater Country Club inn Portland, Ore. from September 22-24. Jones also hopes to earn a spot on Team USA in the prestigious Solheim Cup being held at Loch Lomond Golf Club in Scotland from October 6-8.

Johnsburg's Moulis captures "King of Wisconsin" Crown

Long live "King" Dave Moulis. The Johnsburg sprint car warrior scored the biggest victory of his racing career July 22 at Wilmot Speedway. The win came as he was crowned "King of Wisconsin IV" in front of a packed house by taking the checkered flag in the first ever World of Outlaws (WO) Gumout Racing Series 40-lap feature sponsored by Miller Lite.

"Beating these guys, they're the best, and this is great," said Moulis, driving the Fox Lake Harbor/Miller Trucking/Contract Furnishings Maxim, who won the "King" crown in 1998, but not a WO sanctioned main. "I knew Jeff (Shepard) was coming up, and I think we had a bleeder valve stick open on the left rear tire which is why it was going down. This win is great."

"I knew Dave was tough, and I tried the high side to get a run on him, but couldn't quite make it stick," said Shepard, of Upperco, Md., driver of the Cat Construction/York Excavating Maxim, who was second in Gumout Series points going into the night. "He runs hard, runs clean, and tonight, he was the faster car and deserved to win."

"This is great for my car owner, my sponsors, and I especially have to thank Chip Bell who worked on the motor all night, getting just two hours sleep," said Kurt Winker of Pleasant Prairie, who drove the Walsh-Griffin

Family/Body Craft/Winker Engineering JB Chassis to third place in the 26-car "A" main field.

Jason Meyers took the initial lead in the main, which was slowed by a caution for a spin after two laps. Meyers maintained the point until a red came out on lap four when Kim Mock flipped on the front straightaway coming out of turn four, and at the same time, Todd Daun flipped on the backstretch coming out of turn two. Neither driver was injured.

On lap 16, Moulis worked the outside to take the lead at the start/finish line on the front straightaway. Four laps later, Shepherd shot to the high side in turn two as the pair worked heavy lapped traffic. A caution came on lap 21 for Paul McMahan who had a flat tire coming out of turn two. Moulis hounded Shepherd as the two battled wing to wing, dicing through traffic. On lap 27, Moulis retook the lead. With three laps remaining, a spin brought the caution setting up a dash for the finish. On the initial white flag lap, Ronald Laney and Darrell Dodd both flipped in turn one, creating a scramble from the rest of the field. Neither driver was injured. Since the leader had not crossed the finish line, according to WO rules, the lineup used was lap 39, however, it was a green-white-checkered finish essentially creating a 41 lap feature.

During the yellow while cars were lining back up, Moulis' left-rear tire could be seen going down. On the restart, Shepard pulled even with Moulis as the two shot through turns one and two. On the final white flag lap, Shepard, who was running as high as he could go on the outside rim of the track next to the wall, gave it one more shot through turns three and four. With the entire grandstand on its feet and cheering wildly for the last lap, Moulis was up to the challenge, becoming the seventh different Gumout Series feature winner in 19 events thus far this season, with Shepard coming across less than a half-car length behind in second. Winker, Brad Furr, Craig Dollansky, Meyers, Randy Kinser, Shane Stewart, Todd Hepfner and Jon Trudeau completed the Top-10.

Moulis is the current Star Trac 410 Outlaw Sprints point leader at Wilmot Speedway and expected when the one-third mile clay oval resumes action Saturday, July 29. Coca-Cola Night at the Races will feature IMCA Modifieds and Herb's IMCA Hobby Stocks are on the program with the sprints. Grandstands open at 5 p.m. with racing at 7 p.m.

At the 4th Annual Brian Redman International Challenge (BRIC) at Road America in Elkhart Lake, WI, Rich Pfrang of Little Chute, WI was the top winner in Race Group 1; Rob Walton of Scottsdale, AZ in Group 2 in which George Balbach of Lake Forest was the "E" class winner; Dave Jahimiak of LaCrosse, WI in Group 3; Duncan Dayton of New Milford, CT in Group 4; Brian French of Sheboygan, WI overcame a late start to dominate Group 5 and followed up with a Group 9 win as well; Steve Prewitt of San Diego, CA in Group 6; Lance King in the Milt Minter '73 Porsche 917-30 took the win in the headliner "Can Am Thunder" Group 7; Randy Lenz of Ft. Lauderdale, FL in Group 8 in which Ed Lead of Barrington finished ninth overall and sixth in the "C" class; with the Historic Enduro win going to Alec Hsu in a '87 Porsche 962C on Saturday afternoon, July 22, while the team of Joe Hish and Walt Bohren combined for the victory in a '63 LaBoa MKII on Sunday afternoon as each event was one hour in length.

The next event at Road America will be CART practice days on Tuesday through Thursday, August 1-3, with the grounds being open and free to spectators. RA will host the Motorola 220 weekend Aug. 17-20. CART is at Chicago Motorspeedway in Cicero this weekend, July 28-30, along with Indy Lights.

COUNTY DIGEST

North Chicago street closure

The Lake County Division of Transportation has closed 14th St. to all eastbound traffic from Jackson St. to Sheridan Rd. in North Chicago. The street will remain closed for 60 days for reconstruction. Motorists can use Jackson St. to 18th St. to Sheridan Rd. as an alternate route.

Peaker panel discussion

A panel discussion on peaker power plants will be held on Aug. 1 at the Shiloh Center in Zion from 7-9 p.m. A representative from the Skygen Power Plant in Zion will be participating, as well as Susan Zingle from the Lake County Conservation Alliance. For more information call 223-7178.

Youth orchestra performs

The Lake County Youth Orchestras will be presenting their summer concert on July 30 at 2 p.m. at the Byron Colby Barn in Prairie Crossing subdivision in Grayslake. Admission is free and the public is welcome.

Anti-tobacco program launched

The Lake County Health Dept./Community Health Center has launched "Tobacco Free Lake County," a new program targeted to promote a strong and consistent tobacco use prevention and cessation message throughout Lake County. Funding for this one-year program comes out of the Federal tobacco settlement, of which Illinois is scheduled to receive $9.1 billion over the next 25 years. The Health Dept. will receive $467,000 this year, and has the opportunity to apply for additional funding in the future.

As part of the program, the Health Dept. will provide information and training to doctors, advanced practice nurses and dentists on tobacco use prevention.

Additionally, the Health Department will implement a community-wide tobacco use prevention media campaign tailored to appeal to a wide variety of groups, including Hispanic and African American populations. Vehicles for getting the message out will include LCHD/CHC clinic kiosks, billboards, posters, newspaper ads, on-screen ads prior to movies and restaurant place mats.

Miss Lake Villa selected Miss Lake County Fair

Sara Neeve, 17, will have a lot on her plate this year. Just weeks after winning her crown as Miss Lake Villa, the University of Iowa sophomore has earned another title: Miss Lake County Fair.

Her job as Lake County Fair queen will be to meet and greet people at the fair, and compete against about 70 other contestants in January in the Miss Illinois State Fair competition in Springfield.

"Winning the pageant is overwhelming, but the best feeling in the world," Neeve said in a WKRS radio interview.

Her predecessor, 19-year-old

Megan Thompson of Wauconda, noted that her 1999 reign resulted in the "experience of a lifetime." She said she is looking forward to attending the fair sans her crown and sash which she will keep as mementos of her title.

Thompson had these words of advice to pass on to Neeve, "The most important aspect of being the Lake County Queen is to become one with the communities which you serve. Be very personable, but above all just be yourself."

The first runner-up in the competition was Miss Waukegan 2000, Mary Vineski, 19, a junior at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Second runner-up was Miss Wauconda 2000, Michelle Czach, 17, a senior at Wauconda High School.

Illnesses now in check

Twelve confirmed cases of shigellosis, a severe diarrheal illness, have been tallied by the Lake County Health Department since the detection of an outbreak among patrons of El Famous Burrito restaurant on Belvidere Rd. in Waukegan. Two of the people affected by the disease have been hospitalized and released.

The disease, heralded by symptoms of diarrhea, fever and stomach cramps, was allegedly passed by an infected restaurant employee who failed to properly wash his hands after using the restroom. According to health department officials, persons who contract shigellosis should never prepare food or pour water for others until they are free of the bacteria. The dysentery bug is spread through hand contact and can also be caught from eating contaminated food handled by an infected person. Shigella bacteria can hang on for up to a month after a person is sick if not properly treated with antibiotics.

Communications Manager Leslie Piotrowski noted that while the health department's epidemiological unit tracks about 90-100 cases of shigellosis annually, this particular strain is more severe and is typically seen in developing world countries.

To date, along with the confirmed cases, there were 10 probable cases in which patrons who ate at the restaurant between June 29-30 showed typical symptoms without lab confirmation. There were 23 possible cases in which the symptoms were atypical, said Piotrowski.

According to Piotrowski, the restaurant employee was ordered to stay at home until the prescribed amount of antibiotics was taken and he was proven to be free of the bug. Although the restaurant was not closed down by the health department, all of its food workers were required to be tested for the disease. Restaurant officials have also increased their vigilance on employee hand-washing.

"El Famous has been very cooperative throughout this ordeal," noted Piotrowski, who said the epidemic appears to be under control. —By Sandy Hartogh

Predatory lending to seniors on the rise

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

An octogenarian stroke victim in McHenry stands to lose her long-time home to foreclosure. She is the remaining casualty in a mortgage broker scam that her now deceased husband unwittingly became victim to.

Another senior citizen in a Chicago suburb has had five different equity loans in as many years. The ninety-one-year-old has a monthly income of $900. His monthly mortgage payment is now $1,000. The equity from his home has been systematically stripped to nothing.

Yet another paid $17,000 in broker fees for a $65,000 loan. Those fees did not include interest payments.

The above are real-life people who are too embarrassed to reveal their identities. They are a sampling of the thousands who are victimized by predatory lending practices in which so-called mortgage and home equity lenders use deceptive sales tactics to connive a signature on a loan contract before the loan applicant has had a chance to properly review the documents. The end result is more debt to the homeowner or potential foreclosure.

"The rise in foreclosures around the state is gigantic because of predatory lenders," said Ira Rheingold, attorney of the senior housing law project for the Legal Assistance Foundation of Chicago.

"It's kind of like the Wild West out there. Loans are being made to people who can't afford it and legislation is pretty minimal. This is having a gigantic impact on seniors," he continued.

Rheingold said senior citizens fit the profile for predatory lending because they usually have a lot of equity in their homes. They also live on fixed incomes and may need extra cash for home repair, hospital bills and even prescription drugs.

"Seniors are easy targets that lenders and brokers identify through credit bureaus," noted Rheingold. "The younger generation doesn't take debt as seriously."

He said that most homeowner debt is unsecured, such as credit card and medical bills. This means that once a person dies, and there are no means for living family members to pay off the debt, it will go uncollected. However, if the debt is secured against a house, the property can be claimed by the lender as payment.

"The worst thing is to take your debt and secure it against your house," warned Rheingold who suggested just keeping up with minimal payments on bills if possible.

Historically, predatory lending has had a stronghold in low-income and minority communities, but Rheingold pointed out that the refinancing feeding frenzy has moved to middle-income suburbia.

"Predatory lending is spreading because the lenders have saturated the low-income market. They have refined their sales techniques so that even though they give every required disclosure, the ball is hidden so people don't recognize what they are being charged for," said Rheingold, citing First Alliance, a now defunct California mortgage company that tar-

Common warning signs:

- Watch for exceedingly high interest rates and inflated fees.
- Beware of "Bait and Switch" tactics—where a lender initially offers one set of terms, but then pressures the borrower into signing a contract with more expensive terms and hidden fees.
- Avoid loans from door-to-door salesmen and pitches for home equity loans related to unsolicited home improvement contracts.
- Look out for mail and television ads that claim "No job? No credit? No problem! You can still qualify for a loan based on your home equity." Remember, if it sounds too good to be true it probably is.
- Walk away from high-pressure sales tactics to sign a loan contract right away. If the offer is good today, it should be good tomorrow—after you have reviewed the contract and consulted a financial advisor and/or lawyer.

Navy gets into 4-H act at fair

By BECKY DUBA

The Great Lakes Naval Base sent 40 sailors to the Lake County Fair grounds to assist with checking in over 1,000 projects children had created for the annual 4-H judging competition. They also assisted the judges in recording information about each project.

The point in having the sailors help is a part of their rigorous training program, which includes character-building and community service.

The 4-H program helps children aged 8-18 learn the skills they need to become productive members of society. It is a program of the University of Illinois Extension and teaches self-reliance, critical thinking, flexibility, team-building, citizenship and

AT A GLANCE

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Suspect in murder case makes plea

Wadsworth—Jeremy Tweedy, 22, one of three men charged in the murder of an unidentified woman, pleaded guilty to obstruction of justice in exchange for testimony against the other two defendants.

Tweedy was sentenced to two years in prison because he tried to conceal information about the murder from investigators.

Jason Strong, 24, has been charged with first degree murder and concealing the homicide of an unidentified woman, whose body was found at Greenbelt Forest Preserve on Dec. 9.

Tweedy and Jason Johnson, 28, both acquaintances of Strong, were also charged for concealing the homicide.

Strong had allegedly invited the woman back to his room at the Motor Inn Motel, 41470 N. Rte. 41 in Wadsworth. The subject allegedly became enraged and beat the woman at his hotel, causing blunt trauma to her head. He is charged with first degree murder.

Organized crime fugitive arrested

Antioch—Though appearances were no different than that of any other resident living in Antioch, Donald Shannon is far from typical.

Deputy U.S. Marshals Charles Ahmad, Garth Rehberg, Joseph Kimpel and Paul Peroutka came to Shannon's door at 6 a.m. on July 25 to question him about an acquaintance of the man they were looking for: Leonard Rizzo.

"When he answered the door, I was quite certain it was him (Rizzo)," said Ahmad. "As we questioned him, we caught him in a couple of lies, and he admitted he was Rizzo."

Rizzo was a New Yorker with suspected links to organized crime. He disappeared after being charged with selling heroin in 1984.

Drug Enforcement Administration agents charged Rizzo with conspiracy to sell narcotics and possession with intent to distribute heroin. He fled after posting bail and before his trial.

Rape charges against sailor dropped

Round Lake—A 21-year-old Puerto Rican resident accused of raping an 18-year-old Round Lake woman is out of jail, after a Lake County circuit court judge reduced his sexual assault charges to misdemeanor battery.

Etionex Antonetti-Cruz, who spent about 10 months in prison following the sexual assault charge, received a sentence of time served, and was immediately released following the ruling.

In Oct. 1999, he was charged with criminal sexual assault, aggravated criminal sexual assault and unlawful restraint after an alleged incident inside a Lake Bluff motel. The 18-year-old woman and two female friends met Antonetti-Cruz and another sailor at a fast-food restaurant.

The 18-year-old woman and the two sailors then went to the motel, where she initially accused Antonetti-Cruz of raping her while the other sailor, Robert Kinard, held her down. The woman later recanted her story that Kinard held her down, and all charges against him were dropped.

One vehicle crash kills two

Fox Lake—The Lake Zurich Police Department are mourning the death of two brothers of one of its detectives.

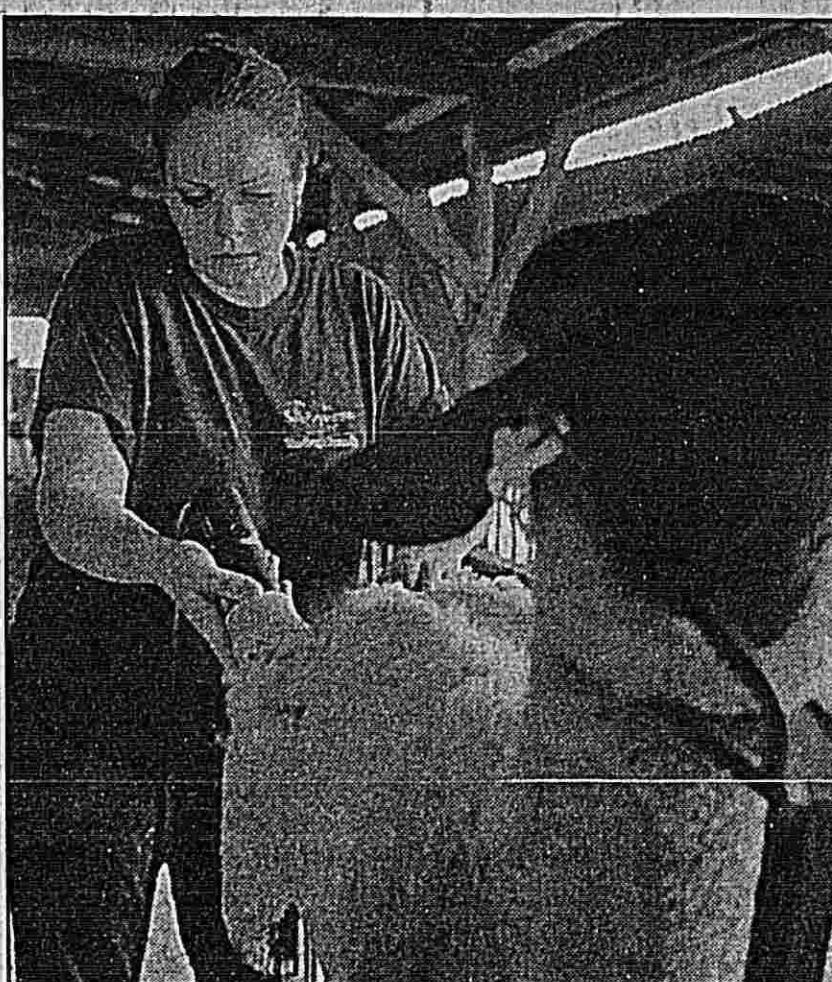

Keith Goodyear, 31 and Bryan Goodyear, 29, of Antioch were killed in a one-vehicle accident in the early morning hours of July 23 along Grass Lake Rd. in Fox Lake.

Bryan Goodyear was rushed by helicopter to Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge. Keith Goodyear was pronounced dead at the scene, according to Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson.

The vehicle, a 1995 Blazer, was traveling at a high rate of speed when it crash going around an "S" curve. Both victims were ejected from the vehicle.

Tire slashers hit vehicles in 3 villages

Libertyville—Libertyville, Vernon Hills and Mundelein police are investigating a series of tire slashings that likely occurred in the early morning hours of July 23, causing thousands of dollars in damages.

According to the Libertyville Police Dept., at least five cars and one boat trailer had their tires cut with a knife by an unknown person(s). Additionally, eight vehicles in Vernon Hills were reported to have similar damage resulting in 22 flat tires. Vernon Hills police officials said all eight cars were inside the Deerpath subdivision, south of Rte. 60.

Libertyville Police Chief Pat Carey confirmed his investigators will be in contact with other agencies in an attempt to solve the crimes. Five tire slashings were also reported the same day in portions of Mundelein.

Each incident was reported to police in the morning and afternoon hours of July 23.

LCTIP plan not popular in Mundelein

Mundelein—Representatives from the Lake County Transportation Improvement Project (LCTIP) presented its findings to the Mundelein Village Board during its regular meeting.

LCTIP concluded that the Rte. 53 extension, instead of a set of widening improvements on Rte. 83, Rte. 45 and Rte. 12 with a bypass around Mundelein, was the better way to alleviate north/south traffic congestion.

This conclusion was unacceptable to trustee Ed Sullivan. "At this point in time, Rte. 53 is a dinosaur," said Sullivan adding it is a serious roadblock splitting the village in half.

Sullivan continued to address project manager Peter Harnet, asking if he realized that 300 homes in Mundelein would have bedrooms 300 feet away from the proposed right-of-way. Harnet responded that yes, he did know that.

Gurnee hears plan for O'Connor plot

Gurnee—Representatives of Town and Country Homes presented preliminary plans for development of what has come to be known as the O'Connor Property. Village officials' reactions were mixed to the plan, which suggested that both office buildings and residential space for the undeveloped property, located north of Stearns School Rd., between Rte. 41, I-94 and Dilley's Rd.

The village's comprehensive plan for the area recommends that the land should be used exclusively for office service and industrial research office usage.

Though members of the village board and the plan commission seemed impressed with the developer's plan, they expressed concern about adding more residential areas to a village that has seen exponential growth.

The biggest question raised for village officials was the effect that adding new homes to the Gurnee area would have on the village's three school districts.

Town and Country said it would discuss the issue with the schools before moving forward.

Amended PUD request approved

Lake Villa—At a supplemental public meeting of the Lake Villa board of trustees, a quorum of four, including the mayor, approved an amended P.U.D. (planned unit development) requested by Helmut Peter, of PRD Associates, on behalf of Buschman Development.

The application changes the specifications of a proposed residential development to be built on a portion of land owned by John Gridley, located southwest of the Grand Ave. and Deep Lake Rd. intersection. The original plan called for 236 units: 200 apartments and 36 townhomes. The new plan eliminates the townhomes, and drops the number of apartment units to 162.

Jewel-Osco plans endorsed by board

Lindenhurst—At a regular meeting of the Lindenhurst board of trustees, Jewel-Osco garnered appreciation from the board for its cooperative approach in developing its plans for a store at Rte. 45 and Sand Lake Rd.

The plan, proposed in October 1999, was exhaustively reviewed by project manager Jane L. Gattone, an engineer with Craig R. Knoche & Associates, and resident of Lindenhurst, who carefully read every ordinance to make sure the plans would be in compliance.

Attorney Ray Gerard, representing Jewel-Osco, said the company was not looking for any variations from the established village codes. An amendment to the village's comprehensive plan will be required, because the current plan indicates half the property zoned for office use and half for commercial business.

One vehicle accident injures 2

Wauconda—Speed is believed to be one of the factors leading to a one-vehicle crash on Fairfield Rd. on July 22.

The accident took place at Fairfield Rd. at Gossell at 4:15 p.m. The 1988 Porsche was headed southbound on Fairfield and struck a telephone pole, Wauconda Police said.

Police believe a 38 year-old man from Wauconda was driving. He was transported to a Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge via Flight for Life. The 37 year-old woman passenger was transported to Condell Medical Center and was in serious condition two days later.

Charges in the accident are pending, but could come in a couple of weeks.

Zoning brings business to Rte. 83

Grayslake—At the latest Grayslake Committee of the Whole meeting, the trustees and mayor discussed rezoning another home on Rte. 83 from residential to commercial.

Zoning Officer Kirk Smith said the rezoning process for Rte. 83 has been an ongoing work for the past seven or eight years.

"Where once there were 80 to 90 percent residential homes, it is now probably at least half commercial," Smith said.

The residents moving into the home plan to operate a pet grooming business. There will be no overnight boarding of animals. This request is in conformance with the Rte. 83 Sub-area Plan.

Smith said the plan is very straight forward. Rte. 83 is a major route through Grayslake and currently the land along the road is zoned Commercial Transition. This means that a building there may be either a residential dwelling or a business.

EDITORIALS

Education No. 1 political priority

If there's a No. 1 issue in the November presidential election, it's education. Both Vice President Al Gore and Gov. George W. Bush have education "plans" and we're sure to be hearing plenty about schools in the coming weeks.

In this locality, education also is the No. 1 issue, in our opinion. The national debate centers on federal funding, teacher and teaching standards and far-reaching policy questions. Locally, education tends to focus on brick and mortar questions, how to build the classrooms needed to keep up with growth.

The resolve of taxpayers in this community to support public education regularly gets tested in the form of bond issue referendums. Antioch High School is the latest district to be "tested," this time in a professionally conducted opinion survey two months ago. On a question regarding issuance of bonds to build a new high school, more than 60 percent favored a proposed bonding program. Of those responding, 74 percent responding agreed that crowding in the high school is a serious problem. The real test will come at the ballot box in the next election.

From a Lake County perspective, closely on the heels of education is transportation. How to provide relief for gridlock and longer and longer highway commutes probably is the most talked about public issue. A close third, from our vantage point, is protection of the environment and preservation of open space. County government is consumed with land-use policies. Elected County Board representatives are shouldering the burden of determining how farm land, wetlands and wooded areas will be utilized in the future. They're getting citizen support, but for some unknown reason, the topic doesn't resonate with elected officials at the municipal level where new subdivisions typically are approved with little or no regard for infrastructure needs or impact on the schools.

There are some communities in Lake County where crime and public safety is the No. 2 public concern.

Nationally, network media voices and politicians tell us that health care, Social Security, defense, the economy, immigration and civil rights are burning public issues. Taxation also comes into the national debate. Republicans say taxes are too high and Democrats insist taxes are not high enough. In our community and neighboring communities, a tax breaking point has not yet been reached, particularly in funding public education. Maybe the Democrats are on to something.

Short of an economic downturn or a foreign calamity involving U.S. military forces, education looks to be the No. 1 public policy question here and elsewhere for a long time.

Spirit of 76 spurs United Way drive

This might be the year for United Way of Lake County Inc. to wave the flag besides beating the drum for community service.

The flag-waving would be a neat tie-in to capitalize on United Way's 76th year of gathering contributions in support of public service organizations. United Way traces its origin to 1924 as Waukegan Community Chest. In 1940, the organization incorporated to continue its work of cooperative collections of voluntary pledges and gifts to support 16 member health and human service organizations.

Employees of Abbott Laboratories introduced payroll deduction contributing in the 1950s. In 1959, the name changed to the North Lake County Community Chest, Inc., to reflect service to Libertyville, Mundelein, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Zion and Winthrop Harbor. Seven years later the organization became United Community Services of Lake County, Inc. The current name was adopted in 1973 and the service area broadened to take in the entire county.

United Way keeps expanding its horizons and its goals. In 1999, United Way raised $11.2 million. The Abbott connection remains strong. The new chairman of the board is Joseph M. Nemmers Jr., who is vice president and executive director of the Clara Abbott Foundation.

The Spirit of 76 should add additional impetus to this year's fund campaign.

VIEWPOINT

VA Hospital future depends on politics

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

More than ever, the future of North Chicago Veterans Affairs Medical Center is shaping up as a pure political decision. Ignore all the blah blah from politicians, bureaucrats and certain segments of the media about bipartisanship needed to secure a continuing role for the institution that provides primary medical services for thousands of veterans in northeastern Illinois.

That's the conviction of Phil Mazur, the veterans rights activist who knows as much as anybody about what's going out front and behind the scenes on proposals to shutter the venerable institution.

Mazur fully supports the notion that if a Republican president is elected in November, North Chicago VA will remain open and Lakeside VA in Chicago will be closed. If the Democrats retain control of the White House, Lakeside gets a reprieve and North Chicago gets the ax.

"Elementary politics," Mazur exclaims. "Who's calling the shots?" asks Mazur as if everyone involved in the process is ignoring the fact that Bill Clinton still is president.

Mazur, a Libertyville resident who sells real estate from an office in Lake Bluff to make a living and who promotes youth volleyball for relaxation from his exhausting hospital mission, says U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin (R-Ill.) was grandstanding when he extolled a proposal to keep North Chicago VA alive by combining services with the Great Lakes Naval Training Center hospital.

"Where's that agreement? Nobody can find it. Something's fishy," insists the wiry, crew-cut former sailor.

Mazur scoffs at pronouncements supporting bipartisanship like those made by Lake County Democratic Chairman Terry Link. "All the bipartisanship talk has resulted in is veterans fighting veterans," Mazur claims. Mazur is furious that some veterans were not allowed to participate in a July 10 meeting of the hospital's Stakeholders Advisory Council.

Attempts to "depoliticize" the debate over North Chicago VA allow "paid bureaucrats to decide the fate of the hospital," in Mazur's opinion. He believes a Jan. 24, 2000, Dept. of Veterans Affairs memo creating a Review Task Group is the "smoking gun" that is being ignored in the debate over North Chicago vs. Lakeside.

Mazur sees the task force as a rubber stamp to endorse a high level decision to "close one hospital." The outspoken activist believes Democrats led by Chicago Mayor Daley intervened with the White House to save Lakeside at the expense of closing North Chicago.

"That's where this whole thing is pure politics," Mazur remarked.

In reality, the fighter for veterans rights believes both institutions should remain open. "Don't forget, medical care is an entitlement when you put on the uniform of our country. How can anyone turn their back on our veterans?"

Happy 65th birthday— To the Social Security Act

There is an important anniversary in August. The Social Security Act was signed into law on Aug. 15, 1935, so it celebrates its 65th birthday. Coincidentally, the age to qualify for social security when it became effective was 65 years old, so the "birthday" has special significance this year.

When Social Security was proposed by then President Franklin D. Roosevelt its backer said that the aged in America needed a guaranteed insurance program so that they could live a decent life during their "golden retirement years." The proposal was controversial at the time and opponents said that it was socialism at its worst.

Although we think of Social Security as only benefiting retirees, the act also gave benefits to disabled Americans as well as survivor benefits to children and adults. Because the overwhelming number of beneficiaries are retirees, almost everyone automatically thinks of social security as a "safety net" for the aged.

Well, here we are 65 years later and social security is still here, tested and true. Yes, it has had its detractors, but can you tell me where this country would be without social security? It is here to stay and the only issue now is to keep it working as well in the future as it has in the past.

As I said, the social security issue started out in controversy but the fervor of President Roosevelt and his ability to move the public through radio "fireside chats," turned the tide in favor of its passage. You must remember, too, that these were tough economic times and families didn't know when their next paycheck was coming, let alone trying to save for retirement.

When you think about it, 65 years isn't that long ago. Today, it is almost unthinkable that the average salary of workers, if they had a job during those depression years, was $1,200. Imagine trying to raise a family on that. It's no wonder that you often heard the words, "we were happy as long as we had food on the table."

After social security became a reality, the monthly benefits ranged from $10 to a maximum of $85 a month. That's modest no matter the times. Those amounts were frozen until 1950 when benefits were raised and later when cost of living adjustments were included.

Through the years, the issue of social security has been identified as one of the strongest issues favoring the Democratic Party. It was always perceived as a Democratic issue because President Roosevelt initiated it and any opposition that developed through the years came from conservative Republicans who always predicted the day of doom when social security would "go down in ashes." The fights to go after Social Security only solidified Democrats and for years made a hero out of the late Congressman Claude Pepper who always rallied the public to "save Social Security."

Social Security became such an important issue to America's seniors that they have always had a strong record of turnout at the polls. That means that neither of the political parties dare make any moves to give the notion that they are suggesting changes in the Social Security system that in any way would erode benefits to the many who receive, or will receive them.

Still, George W. Bush is taking the gamble to change the system and leaning to some privatization of it by allowing some portion of the payroll tax to go toward investment in the stock market. The social secu-

Christian sets pace for re-election plans

I'm running.
Avon Township Supervisor Russ Christian (Grayslake/Round Lake area) doesn't hedge when talking about the consolidated elections of 2001 now less than a year away.

"I like my job and I want to continue," remarked Christian, a former accountant for a major Lake County manufacturing firm. Christian, in his second term, grew up in a political family. His late father, Stanley, was Lake County sheriff when the sheriff's family still resided on the jail premises. That would be 50 years ago.

While he may be the first township supervisor to talk publicly about his re-election plans, Christian noted, "I don't know of any supervisors who aren't planning to run for re-election."

Tax talk

State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) is calling in an Illinois Dept. of Revenue expert to talk about Internet taxation at her next Legislative Breakfast Club meeting at 7:30 a.m., Tuesday, Aug. 15 at Condell Conference Center. She said Phil Wyatt also will be available to discuss other tax issues.

Stonewalling

Voice for Wildlife, an animal protection organization, is targeting officials from the Lake County Forest Preserve District and the Village of Lincolnshire for policies detrimental to wildlife. They're calling attention to the shooting of a doe in Ryerson Woods last February and the clearing of Florsheim Woods Nature Preserve as examples of official negligence. Director Divida Terry says the two agencies are guilty of gross stonewalling.

Hit the road

Grayslake Village trustee Craig Gertz has caught a lot of flack since announcing his family plans to move closer to his downtown Chicago workplace.

"A number of trustees have approached me regarding an early retirement, and let's just say we've agreed to disagree," Gertz said.

The Fix is in

It was obvious that the majority of Lake County Board members had already made their decision concerning the Rollins Rd. extension prior to the full county board meeting of July. Particularly after the Lake County Dept. of Transportation issued a press release stating the board's approval of Phase II of the extension the day before the vote was actually taken.

New puppy takes over the house

I saw my friend Virginia downtown the other day and she said, "I will be interested to find out when Tuesday arrives."

She wasn't talking about the day of the week; she was referring to the puppy dog my wife Janice and I have been planning to adopt. I wrote about it recently.

"Somebody's coming to chew our slippers," I said. "Whether or not he will be called Tuesday is still uncertain."

Our first dog, 25 years ago, was named Sunday. She died at the age of 13 and was followed by Monday, who passed away last October at age 11. Precious, wonderful pets, both of them.

How we got into this naming of dogs by the days of the week is an interesting anecdote. As soon as we picked up our first dog and were driving home, family members began suggesting names: "Let's call her this, let's call her that ..."

"Whoa," I cautioned. "Let's think about it for a few days."

Janice took the puppy to a veterinarian and, of course, the receptionist asked, "What's the dog's name?"

"We're going to think about it and name her Sunday," said Janice.

"That's a good idea," said the receptionist, and the puppy became "Sunday."

With the second dog, just for fun and symmetry, I held out for "Monday" and Janice eventually went along with it.

This time, tentatively, it's Tuesday although I feel that might be feminine (for example, Tuesday Weld, the actress).

Janice reminds me I sometimes called each of our first two dogs "Peaches," so that too is a candidate.

Whatever this incredibly cute, funny, playful little puppy winds up being called, he already has brightened our lives despite the inconveniences.

As Rodney Dangerfield says, "Look out for Number One and don't step in Number Two."

And, of course, frisky puppies chew everything they can sink their sharp little teeth into, including their humans.

A book about raising puppies says in order to discourage biting, which is a dominant behavior, we should substitute a submissive behavior such as licking.

To train a dog in this manner, one spreads a thin film of peanut butter on one's hand and holds it outstretched to the dog, saying, "Lick, lick." His reward, of course, is the peanut butter and some praise: "Good dog!"

So, eventually, according to the book, when you are interacting with your dog and he begins biting, you say, "Lick, lick," and he switches to licking. (It worked with Monday!)

In the meantime, I would suggest you don't shake hands with old sticky hand here.

The dog has been man's sidekick since the Stone Age. August Strindberg, a Swedish writer, joked 100 years ago: "I loathe people who keep dogs. They are cowards who haven't got the guts to bite people themselves."

But the dog often has been called the only thing in the world that loves you more than he loves himself. That's why columnist and commentator Andy Rooney says, "The average dog is a nicer person than the average person."

And Mark Twain said, "If heaven went by merit, you would stay out and your dog would go in."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A living symbol of freedom

On this Millennium Fourth of July holiday, I witnessed a moment of democracy in action. The Libertyville-Vernon Hills Veterans of Foreign Wars Color Guard raised in full ceremony a U.S. Flag flown over the U.S. Capitol to honor the Illinois Association for Home and Community Education on its 75th anniversary.

We are privileged that this flag is now flying over Lake County from the County Government building in Waukegan. IAHCE members have been passing this flag from County to County throughout the State of Illinois for nearly two years. By carrying out this mission, IAHCE is able to honor not only the fine work of its member since 1924, but also all that which the residents of Illinois have given to one another. As in the words of Woodrow Wilson, "The things that the flag stands for were created by the experiences of great people."

And so, it is my privilege, on behalf of the Lake County Association for Home and Community Education, to thank Senator Geo-Karis, the Lake County Board and staff, board members, Pamela Newton and Peggy Shorts, the 4-H Highlighters youth, the Lake County Sheriff's honor guard and the public for this moment in history on this most auspicious occasion. I further wish to thank Senator Geo-Karis for her gift of a State of Illinois flag to IAHCE. We will protect and display it with utmost care. It is, as is the U.S. flag, a living symbol of that which protects and guarantees our individual freedom in this imperfect world.

Beginning of end

The first signs of decay in all matured villages and towns are when business and industry start to move out. In Waukegan, many businesses and industry have left long ago. Government is pretty much all that keeps Waukegan economically alive.

Encouraging government to leave is the beginning of the end, in my judgment. Waukegan and the entire lake front still have the potential to fully recover, with some help. As far as Waukegan is concerned, it is comparable to open space. The public pays either way, if land is developed or preserved; the same is true for Waukegan. The public will pay if Waukegan is allowed to continue to decay, losing much needed tax base or investment in Waukegan (government) in an effort to turn Waukegan around.

One way not to go is to cut off the one thing that is stable there: government. It won't be easy or quick, but it took many years of short sighted planning for the shoreline to get in the position it is in now, and we will not answer the problem overnight.

Border conflict

My comments are in regard to the cartoon on the editorial page of the July 14 issue. The cartoonist's name indicated is T. Bell.

There is much more to Green Bay, Wis. than the packing of food made from animals. At the K-Mart store on Rollins Rd. in Round Lake Beach you will find the "FRESH-LIKE" brand of canned and frozen vegetables. You will also find the "FRESHLIKE" brand of canned and frozen vegetables at the Piggly-Wiggly store in Grayslake. Piggly-Wiggly also carried "Peter Piper's" brand pickles from Green Bay, Wis.

My grand-daughter and I were shopping together at K-Mart one day, and I needed frozen vegetables. She asked me if I wanted either the BIRDS-EYE brand or the "GREEN GIANT" brand. I replied, "Neither, give me the 'FRESHLIKE.'" She was rather surprised.

My home town is Milwaukee, Wis. Some of my relatives work three months during the summer months at the peak canning season to earn money to buy their nieces, nephews and grandchildren Christmas presents. You can take the girl out of Wisconsin, but you can't take Wisconsin out of the girl.

I do not like your newspaper referring to the Illinois-Wisconsin State line as a "border." Our border to the north is north of Lake Superior. This can be confusing to school children.

SEEING

city system is "safe," they say, until 2037, and I'm not sure that now is the time to take a risk in "the private market."

My guess is that the Bush advisors have said that social security is an issue that has been "owned by the Democrats," so why not do something to "stir the pot." The trouble with that scenario, I believe, is that when you do that, you "rev of the opposition troops," who will be reminded between now and November why the Democrats have "owned the issue."

It may be, too, that the Bush advisors are telling him that the seniors who may already support Democrats on the social security issue can be offset by the "baby boomers" who might find Gov. Bush's private investment plan more appealing.

Early polls on this matter show that Bush may have picked up some points on this but Vice President Al Gore may "hit a home run" on the issue when the public debates roll around. Polls do show that more of them support Gore's notion to use part of the massive federal surplus to bolster the social security trust fund, even over what is usually more appealing, tax cuts, which are supported by Bush.

Social Security will live on, long after its 65th birthday. I keep hearing that the bad news is that Americans are living so much longer. To me, that's the good news. Congress, and the President, whoever is elected, will continue to do whatever is necessary to strengthen the social security system. I just hope that they try to avoid the privatization route because it will open the door to greater risks and nightmarish administration of a program, in spite of all of the political rhetoric, that is being administered quite successfully.

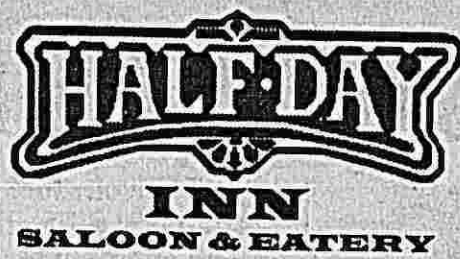

I'm sure that the almost 50 million who receive some benefits under the Social Security Act are happy to raise a toast of "HAPPY 65TH BIRTHDAY TO THE SOCIAL SECURITY ACT—AND MANY MORE IN THE FUTURE."

Baby boomers are growing up

MATURE MARKETING:

Last of Two Parts

Last week, we discussed how the baby boomers would continue to be a lucrative target for marketers who understand this diverse generation. We also discussed four potential growth areas: medical, technology, education and luxury spending. This week we'll provide a little marketing strategy for appealing to the baby boomer generation.

There is money to be made by marketing to this group of nearly 76 million Americans. Here are some tips on how to get more bang for your marketing dollars. Use these strategies to build market share with boomers.

How to sell to boomers

Show them the "value." Baby boomers are no different than most consumers: they want good value in exchange for the money they spend. Boomers are strong spenders, but because they are acutely self-interested, they will walk away from any deals with marginal or questionable values.

Remember this is a well-wired, highly educated segment of the population. They are knowledge rich. They know products, services, features and benefits. Often they are more knowledgeable than the person trying to sell them. You can only be successful if you know what you're selling and focus on giving them honest value.

Sell up. This generation will buy top-of-the-line items. From laptops to lumber and clothing to cars, they like to buy the highest quality. You can benefit if you can convert the features of your products and services, to tangible benefits the boomer buyer will receive. So, show the best, point out the benefits and prove why the top-of-the-line is the best value long term.

Don't treat all boomers the same. This is a diverse generation. Many boomers are enjoying their grandchildren as they turn fifty. Others have young children of their own. Some are at the peak of their careers, others are returning to school or starting a business.

Take time to learn about each boomer customer as an individual. This is good advice for all customer groups, but especially wise for this diverse generation.

Focus on experience, not age. Boomers are aging physically, but not mentally. Most are in their 40s and 50s, but are still thinking 20s and 30s. They will live longer than any previous generation and be more active at the same time. They aren't going to grow old gracefully.

Focus your marketing efforts on their experience, not their age. Focus on what they can do, not what they can't. It's a subtle selling philosophy, but a sound one.

Understand their limitations. For example, as boomers age their eyesight will deteriorate. Make certain your marketing messages can be read. Think about your business cards, brochures, packaging, etc. You may need to go to larger type sizes, select simpler type faces and add more white space.

You may need to add a little lighting to brighten your store or office. If you're playing music, turn it down a little. And, they'll need a comfortable chair if they have to wait too long.

Don't expect boomers to be traditional buyers. This is the "different" generation. They shun tradition in their approach to life, business and buying. They will buy non-traditional goods, they are "early adopters" and don't care much about the country of origin. Expect the unexpected and your marketing plans will be successful.

There are nearly 76 million baby boomers. You can grow your business if you carefully analyze the products and services they will need as they age. If you can help them secure their futures, save them time, lower their stress levels and improve their quality of life, they can make you rich.

OMC certifies college training center in south

Outboard Marine Corporation has entered into a partnership with Carteret Community College in Morehead City, North Carolina which will provide basic outboard engine training for Johnson and Evinrude mechanics on the East Coast.

The agreement is said to be unique in the marine industry—and Carteret Community College is chartering new waters as the first community college in the nation to become an authorized OMC training facility. Carteret Community College will offer a one-week Basic Outboard Engine Training course every other week beginning in October 2000 through April 2001. The 400-plus Evinrude and Johnson dealerships in the company's Mid-Atlantic region will benefit from the convenience of having a skilled training center nearby.

"Part of our company's vision is to provide exceptional training to our dealer network," said Bob Young, Vice President of Technical Service and Training at OMC. "Carteret Community College's commitment to marine related training and coastal based technology is quite impressive and will prove beneficial to everyone involved."

Honesty.com merges with auctioneer Andale

Lake County start up relocating to new Silicon Valley home

An on-line auction service provider launched in Lake County has merged with a California firm to form a new force in a mushrooming field previously dominated by eBay, Yahoo! and Amazon.

Honesty.com, organized in March, 1999, in rented quarters at 34 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, merged with Andale of Mountain View, Calif., and will operate under the Andale name.

The new company has a customer base of nearly 600,000 on-line auction sellers.

Honesty.com was founded by Scott Samuel. The company originally shared facilities with Lakeland NetDIRECT, an Internet service provider owned and operated by Lakeland Media, a multi-media company that publishes 11 news weeklies in Lake County, the Market Journal shopper newspaper and the Great Lakes Bulletin, official newspaper for the Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

The combined company has 150 employees, 120 from Andale and 30 from Honesty.

The joint forces of Honesty and Andale are designed to fill voids in service left by the mafor auction sites, according to Samuels and Munjal Shah, chief executive of Andale. Sellers will be able to use the services and software of Andale to shortcut automated listing forms and get support for advertising, marketing and accounting.

Samuel now is chief community officer at Andale. Steve Perry, a communications specialist, of Cleveland, was instrumental in the development of Honesty. Ken Ryan of Long Grove, an Honesty investor, was chief financial officer of Honesty.

Experiencing explosive growth, Honesty was in the process of expanding facilities in Grayslake when the decision was made to relocate to larger quarters in Northbrook late last year.

Shah said he was attracted to Honesty because it focused on simple services like counting, one-step listing and image hosting. Honesty.com hosts auction message boards available free to on-line sellers. Honesty's services will continue to be free, according to Shah.

Robert J. Schroeder, general manager of NetDIRECT, said web page design services, web hosting and consulting have been added to the service provider's facilities at the four-year-old Grayslake company. NetDIRECT provides a range of Internet services to the newspaper group besides serving a clientele throughout the Chicago metro area.

Event spotlights development tools

Sessions sought to enlighten, seek input from Lake County businesses

By BRENDA BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

A joint venture of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA), Lake County Partners and the Lake County Municipal League held a DCCA Day at the Amhurst Lake Business Park in Waukegan.

"This is an opportunity to get everyone in same building at once, so we can find out what local business needs are," said DCCA's Rob Phillips, explaining the purpose of the event.

A first in Lake County, DCCA brought together government agencies, educational institutions, public and private organizations and large and small businesses to explore cooperative means of economic development in Lake County.

"Economic development starts at the local level," Phillips said. "We need to get everybody on same page and working together. In this room there are organizations that help the business community, sharing ideas on what programs can assist economic development."

The day began with a luncheon, followed by a series of "break-out" sessions, each covering an area of economic development, including tax incentives, financing, training and community capacity building. The event itself was an exercise in business development at work.

Hosted in a building listed by Tri-State Realty, the facility was being marketed on behalf of the current lessee, Hershey Foods. Hershey has never used the building, but it is outfitted as a research and development facility, and the break-out sessions were held in labs. Tri-State and Hershey Foods were corporate sponsors of the event, as well as Adventure Charters, which provided limousine service for DCCA personnel.

The highlight of the luncheon, which attracted about 150 attendees, was a speech by Pam McDonough, director of DCCA. McDonough, appointed by Gov. George Ryan in Jan. 1999, is the first woman named to the post.

McDonough, discussing the ongoing campaign to attract businesses, said, "You can't be a salesperson when you have nothing in your tool box. Since Gov. Ryan took office, we have a full tool box."

The tools at hand for drawing businesses into Illinois include the Illinois FIRST program. The $12 million program is administered by DCCA. Funds from Illinois FIRST are used to help upgrade existing infrastructure, such as water and sewer lines, as well as to help build community and educational facilities.

McDonough discussed VentureTECH, a five-year, $1.9 billion program investing state resources in education, advanced research and development, health sciences and biotechnology, and cutting-edge information technology programs.

The arsenal in the battle for new business development includes tax credits for businesses, rewarding them for creating new jobs in the state, through programs such as the Economic Development through a Growing Economy Tax Credit (EDGE). Programs benefiting economic development, including State Treasurer's Economic Program (STEP), Capital Access Program (CAP), Tax Increment Financing (TIF) and others were discussed in detail in the four half-hour sessions held after the luncheon.

McDonough stressed that, although Illinois was looking for a "level playing field" with competing states, particularly Wisconsin, the state would not "buy a deal" wherein the benefit to the state of Illinois was outweighed by the incentive package offered to businesses.

In the area of tourism, the governor signed legislation creating a Tourism Coordinating Committee consisting of representatives from DCCA, the General Assembly, the office of Lt. Gov. Corinne Wood and other state agencies. The committee will coordinate the promotion and development of tourism. According to DCCA, studies show tourists spent over $736 million in Lake County during 1999, an 8.8 percent increase over the previous year.

During the last 18 months, DCCA has worked with 28 different companies that were considering relocation to Wisconsin, but decided to stay or locate in Illinois.

David Young, president of Lake County Partners, a coalition of government agencies and businesses, cited the previous trend of businesses moving from Illinois to Kenosha County in Wisconsin. "We've seen a reversal in that trend," he noted, citing three Lake County companies that chose Illinois over Wisconsin: CNF Packaging in Lake Villa, Snap-On Credit in Gurnee and Derse Exhibits in Waukegan.

Young enthusiastically endorsed the idea of repeating DCCA Day in the future.

BUSINESS DIGEST

County business earns recognition in BBB competition

CDW Computer Centers Inc., Vernon Hills, has been selected as a finalist in the 2000 Better Business Bureau National Torch Award for Marketplace Ethics competition. Sponsored by the Council of Better Business Bureaus, the national award competition is judged by an independent panel of business and ethics experts. More than 2,000 businesses compete in local BBB Torch Award competitions each year, with 100 being nominated or qualifying for entry at the national level. The winner for each size category of the national Torch Award will be announced in Sept. in conjunction with the Annual Assembly of Better Business Bureaus.

Country Companies rank high with Illinois policyholders

For the second consecutive year, the Country Companies insurance group received the lowest ratio of complaints among all Illinois home and auto insurance companies ranked, according to a recently-released report. The ranking were based on 1999 consumer complaints received by the Illinois Department of Insurance.

Nominations sought for family business competition

Which family businesses are the best in Illinois? You can help determine who they are by submitting nominations to the 2000 Illinois Family Business of the Year Awards program, co-sponsored by the family firms that support the Loyola University Chicago Family Business Center, and by Harris Trust & Savings Bank. All family businesses headquartered in Illinois (except for those that are members of the Family Business Center) are eligible for this seventh annual competition. Nominations, which must be received by Aug. 14, may be made by anyone: employees, colleagues, and family business owners themselves. To obtain a nomination form or more information, call Nathan O'Connor at the Loyola Family Business Center at (312) 915-6495. Nominations may be mailed to the Loyola Family Business Center at 820 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, IL 60611-9810, or faxed to (312) 915-6495.

Network Lake County schedules meetings

Network Lake County, a business-to-business networking group, meets for breakfast every Thursday from 8-9 a.m. in Gurnee at In-Laws Restaurant, Rte. 21 at Grand Ave. to advertise and provide sources of referrals for your business. ### New dental practice opens on Hollister Grove Campus

Hawthorn Health Center welcomed Dr. Dennis Manning as its newest tenant earlier this month. John Sheridan, Chairman of L.J. Sheridan & Co. in Libertyville, announced the opening of the new practice on the Hollister Grove campus. Hollister Grove is located on Milwaukee Ave. just north of Route 60 in Libertyville.

Dennis E. Manning, DDS graduated from Loyola School of Dentistry in 1966. Prior to relocating in Libertyville, Manning had a thriving 20-year practice in Deerfield.

SCORE offers workshops during August

SCORE, the volunteer counseling arm of the Small Business Administration, will conduct five subject-specific workshops during the month of August. These specialized sessions are detailed but condensed into half day sessions. In addition, a full day workshop designed for people going into business will also be conducted during the month.

Aug. 1: Taxes/licenses/record keeping: Record keeping is the least glamorous part of owning a business, but essential to the health of a business. This workshop teaches how to keep good records, how to read the numbers and to know which taxes to pay and when to pay them. Aug. 8: Home based business: What you need to know to get started. Also advises on overcoming the obstacles of working at home. Aug. 10: Full day workshop will introduce an individual to the responsibility of being a successful business owner. An all-inclusive session spanning Business Plans, Financial Basics, Business Records, Marketing/Selling, and Legal Matters.

Aug. 15: Child care. How this fast growing business works. What are the regulations and insurance needs. Covers what you need to start. Aug. 22: Doing business with the government teaches how to gain the world's biggest buyer as a client. Aug. 29: Business insurance. The best cost effective way to protect your business regardless of the type of ownership.

All workshops are held at 500 West Madison St., Suite 1250 Chicago. Registration for all workshops are at 8:30 a.m. Half day workshops end at noon, full day sessions end at 3:30 p.m. The fee for the half day workshop is only $20. The full day session fee is $40.

TRAINING:

College with the latest technology outboard engines, instruction materials and manuals, along with specialized tools and spare parts. Carteret Community College will provide an instructor and its facilities, and OMC has agreed to reimburse the college for each trainee in exchange. OMC is also training the college's marine propulsion instructor to teach this OMC course.

Perry Harker, vice president for corporate and community education says, "About 300 dealership employees will take the course each year. This is going to raise the credibility of our own marine propulsion program significantly. This could well be the first step in building one of the premier marine propulsion programs in the country."

Bob Young emphatically agrees, "If this program is successful, OMC would be very interested in continuing the class offerings to include Level II training and beyond. This joint venture will be an invaluable asset to both OMC and Carteret College."

OMC is a Waukegan-based manufacturer and marketer of internationally known boat, motor and marine accessory brands.

Waukegan Savings demonstrates the spirit of community banking

The summer season seems to bring out the best in employees at Waukegan Savings and Loan SB. During the past month, the active community bank participated in the American Cancer Society's "Relay for Life" and also marched in the City of Waukegan's annual Independence Day parade. Employees from all departments teamed up to support the two events.

The two-day "Relay for Life" was held at Weiss Field in Waukegan. The family-oriented event was held to raise money and increase awareness about cancer. In addition to each relay team walking the track during the night, luminaries were lit in memory of loved ones who had died from the dreaded disease and also to honor cancer survivors.

Using the theme, "Don't Be A Butthead,"

Smoking Causes Cancer," the Waukegan Savings team raised $1,700. In all, the American Cancer Society raised an impressive $58,000 in the event's first year in the Waukegan area. Participants from the bank included Team Captain Barbara Thomas, Ted Stanulis, Robert Cooper, Christy Kennedy, Jenny Gornik, Emily Corsaw, Jaime Johnson, Gina Porras, Karen Crane, Kelly Baker, Nichole Fagan and Lisa Cashmore.

"I am extremely proud of Waukegan Savings and Loan's representation in both events," said Theodore J. (Ted) Stanulis, President of Waukegan Savings and Loan. "We had participation from every department and from both our branches. Their involvement reflects how Waukegan Savings and Loan feels about the role of a community bank and we look forward to continuing our participation in the future."

The Paul LaRoche Story

Occasionally an event occurs of such significance that it forever changes the way you perceive life itself. Suddenly it can seem as if a veil has been lifted and the clarity of your purpose and direction becomes wonderfully obvious. In November 1993 such an event occurred for Paul LaRoche.

Paul, adopted at birth from the Lower Brulé Sioux Reservation in South Dakota, was never told of his heritage. He grew up a part of a white middle-class family in rural Minnesota. Out of respect and love for his adoptive family, he never asked nor felt it was important to know his origins until after the deaths of both adoptive parents.

During the fall of 1993, Paul discovered his Lakota heritage. He learned he had a Lakota family. These enormous influences of Paul's new heritage, awareness and ensuing assimilation, Paul has dedicated his immediate efforts to a series of contemporary Native American recording projects.

His albums deal with native Peoples, issues, legends and traditions utilizing a blend of contemporary instrumentation with traditional Native American percussion, music and singing. The resulting sound is a unique synthesis of two worlds Paul has come to live in.

Paul has truly been privileged and is proud and honored to be part of this wonderful and enlightening journey. As he reaches out to touch the world, it will become a better place — it will become a little more Indian, and this is good.

Paul will be appearing daily from 2:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. at the Northwest Territory Alliance Revolutionary War Encampment, the weekend of August 5th & 6th in Vernon Hills at Century Park. You can now hear Brulé and the sounds of Indian America in song and dance. His live performances have created contagious excitement that is sweeping the nation.

The concert will be 9:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. daily. Brulé will musically greet you with soft piano and guitar melodies in composition with compelling native drumming and sounds. Autographs, CD's and cassettes will be available.

Brulé believes that music is spirit, itself, that is driven by inspiration and formed by heart and soul to be shared with people everywhere. Don't miss this special event.

'Inviting' tips on how to send the right message

It is said that any wedding invitation will get your message across. However, depending on the style of the invitation you select, you can end up making a completely different statement than the one you had intended to make.

When it comes to planning a wedding, selecting an invitation can be the single most complex and confusing aspect of the entire process. Invitations are your guests' first impression of the party, and the style selected often affects their expectations of the reception and choice of attire. Gift-giving also is subject to influence by the invitation received.

According to Encore Studios, manufacturer of fine invitations, stationery and social accessories, selecting an invitation is like creating your own unique recipe. You choose the ingredients and want it to be tasteful. The main ingredients you have at your disposal are the texture, color and shape of the paper, along with style of font and ink color. These can be combined with additional layers of paper, envelope-lining options and calligraphy styles. The finishing touches are wording selection, supplied artwork, a monogram or appliques. There is infinite opportunity for uniqueness.

As you consider these options, be sure that you select the style of the invitation well before the affair. You can base your initial decision on quantity. To do this, take the forecasted number of guests, divide it in half and add an additional 25. This number will factor in the cross section of single guests, families and couples.

It is extremely important to order the correct quantity. A big part of the initial cost of printing is to typeset and prepare the press for printing. Reordering invitations creates a large expense, no matter the quantity.

Wait until you have definite times and sites for your ceremony and reception before submitting the wording. Also, reevaluate your guest list while you still have the opportunity to increase or decrease the initial quantity.

Enter your wording on a word processor or computer that has a spell-checker, then print it out. If you do it this way instead of writing your wording by hand, you will decrease the incidence of error significantly.

Frequently, people attempt to print the addresses themselves on their personal computers instead of writing them or hiring a calligrapher. Unfortunately, matching the font and the color lettering used on the invitation is not always possible. Furthermore, the printing is not raised. An envelope addressed with a matching font and ink can enhance that first impression.

Now that you successfully have selected the invitations you want, there is one final step. Be sure to mail them in time — at least four to six weeks before the ceremony. For more information or other "inviting" tips, visit www.encorestudios.com.

The great 'Tooth Fairy' debate

Dear Dr. Sherri,
My daughter recently lost her 1st tooth. We were all very excited about the "tooth fairy" coming to visit her. She saw her friend the same day who told her that there isn't any such thing as the "tooth fairy." It just about crushed her. I want to help her with this, but am unsure if it is better to teach children the fantasy or the reality around these issues. Any help would be appreciated! Signed..Toothless in Grayslake.

Dear Toothless,

You mean she doesn't exist? I'm crushed too! Fantasy is good for kids! Much of their play and development revolves around fantasy. In my opinion, there is nothing at all wrong with holding onto those little pieces of magic for a bit. Reality comes all too soon and we have our whole lives to spend with it. Who's to say that the "tooth fairy" doesn't exist. She does! She's you! It is still a fun thing, and as far as I know, for decades hasn't destroyed any kid's views of reality or their futures. In fact, my experience says that the kids who know reality too soon are the ones who normally have more stress and trouble.

I can remember being 6 years old and having a kid in my neighborhood tell me about death, killer bees and that there was no such thing as the "tooth fairy." I just about lost my ability to breath at that moment and that little brat got such enjoyment out of it. Who's sicker, the one who believes in the "tooth fairy," or the one who gets enjoyment out of hurting someone else based on their beliefs? If anything, we should be teaching our kids what it means to be considerate of someone else's opinions and feelings. We should teach our kid's that it's o.k. for people to believe in different things than we do.

PARENT'S PLACE

Believing in things you can't necessarily feel or see also happens to be the cornerstone of religion. All of our religions are about faith and believing in magic of one kind or another. Take a close look at some of the stories that religions are based on. They make the "tooth fairy" look tame. Yet we still believe. Believing in those things is o.k. Certainly, when your child reaches the age that he or she naturally begins to question these things, you can talk to the child about how some people believe in it and others don't. It is the child's choice whether the child will continue to believe or not and no one should be judging that. Certainly, if your child has packed a bag and is about to make a trip around the world in search of the "tooth fairy," make sure to stop the child and explain the reality, however, I haven't met any child who is ready to go that far.

We all have our pieces of magic that are beyond what we see and feel in reality. They help us to take reality in an easier way. Hope this helps.

Call Dr. Sherri Singer at (708) 962-2549.

Parents and tots learn and bond at Condell

Cheerios aren't just for breakfast anymore. That's what occupational therapist Rachel Goode shared at a recent "Look What I Can Do!" class at Condell medical Center. She showed parents creative ways to use everyday items like Cheerios and plastic cups to enhance their babies' motor skills.

Goode taught the babies how to place pieces of cereal into a margarine tub one at a time and then dump them out. The babies also delighted in discovering how a little flick of the wrist can turn a sealed container of Cheerios into a musical instrument.

Other recent classes included a lecture on dental health for babies, a question-and-answer session with a lactation consultant and a visit to Cook Memorial Library. A pediatric registered nurse from Condell's New Life Maternity Center leads each class with assistance from visiting clinicians from other areas of the hospital.

Learn fun ways to enhance your baby's development and meet other parents and their babies aged newborn to 3 years old by attending Condell's free "Look What I Can Do!" class. Classes meet every Thursday from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Allen Conference Center on Condell's Libertyville campus. Evening classes for working parents meet once a month. For more information, call 362-2905, ext. 5407.

Prolactin hormone promotes mother's milk production

Dear Dr. Donohue: I do not understand what I can do to lower my prolactin. It is 39, and the normal range is 0-25 ng/ml. Please advise if there is a vitamin or herb that would lower my prolactin level. I am an active, healthy, 47-year-old female in fear of the long-term effects if this is unattended.—D.B.

ANSWER: Thirty-nine is not all that high. When prolactin levels reach 50 ng/ml, there's a 25 percent chance that the pituitary gland harbors a tumor. When levels reach 100, the chances of a tumor being present are 50 percent.

Harmless conditions can elevate prolactin levels. For instance, the birth control pill and antihistamines are examples of medicines that raise prolactin readings. A sluggish thyroid gland causes a rise in blood prolactin levels. A simple blood test detects a thyroid-related cause.

Prolactin levels of less than 50 often revert to normal without any intervention. If levels remain high or if they increase, a brain scan can detect a pituitary tumor.

Symptoms of high prolactin levels include breast leakage of milk and a diminution or complete stop of menstrual periods. With symptoms, there is a greater sense of urgency to discover the cause.

If it turns out that a woman does have a pituitary tumor, medicines can stop prolactin production and pretty much solve the problem. If the tumor is large, surgical removal is the answer.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have xerosis. Nothing has helped

TO YOUR HEALTH

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

me. Can you suggest anything?—K.M.

ANSWER: Xerosis (zee-ROW-suss) is skin so dry that it develops a maddening itch.

With age, the number of skin oil glands diminishes. Oil glands coat the skin with an imperceptible layer of oil. The oil layer keeps the skin moist by preventing water evaporation.

The goal is to restore skin water by restoring the skin's oil coat.

Cut the number of baths or showers to every second or third day. Use soap only under the arms, in the groin and on the feet. Choose a mild soap such as Dove, Caress or Camay. Bathe only in tepid, not hot water.

After bathing, pat the skin with a towel but leave it slightly moist. Then apply a moisturizing cream or gel. Petroleum jelly works well and is inexpensive. However, it's a bit messy. Try products that contain lanolin or glycerin if petroleum jelly is not your cup of tea.

A few illnesses dry the skin and make it itch. Diabetes, thyroid gland malfunction, liver damage and some cancers are examples. The doctor who tagged you as having xerosis must have looked for those illnesses.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individuals letters, but will incorporate them in his column whenever possible.

Egg Donation... Another Path To Parenthood

Parenting can be one of life's most challenging and rewarding experiences. Most couples assume that when they're ready, they'll effortlessly fulfill their dreams of becoming parents. Unfortunately, one in six couples will have difficulty achieving a pregnancy, and for them, the path to parenthood is filled with roadblocks and obstacles. However, recent advances in the field of assisted reproductive technology (ART) offer many alternatives which can help most couples overcome their infertility.

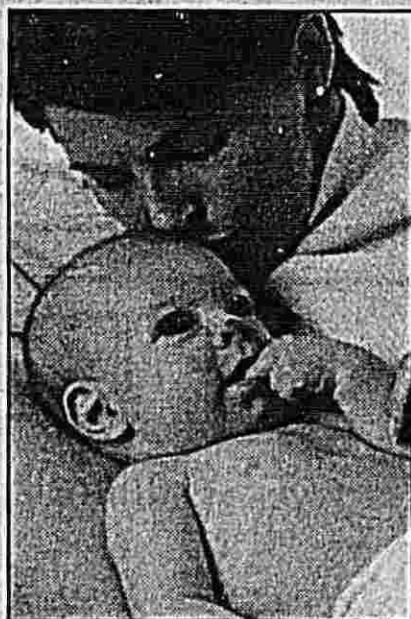

Egg donation is one viable option for infertile couples in what is known as third party reproduction or collaborative reproduction. This process is an option for women who are no longer producing eggs that would result in healthy embryos and pregnancy. Those who benefit from egg donation include women with premature ovarian failure (POF), whose ovaries have been removed due to endometriosis or tumors, who are carriers of a genetic defect or disease they could pass on to their offspring, and women whose ovaries never matured properly. A major advantage of egg donation is that couples have the option of being both genetically linked to the child through the father and gestationally linked to the mother, who will have control over the environmental influences of the womb while she carries the baby.

Possibly one of the most important decisions for women who choose egg donation is who the egg donor will be. Friends and relatives often make suitable donors, as well as women who are recruited through the agencies. The advantages and drawbacks for either situation revolve around a number of psychological, legal and ethical questions which should be resolved before pursuing the medical process. Both donors and intended parents should be certain they are assisted by psychological, legal and medical professionals with expertise in collaborative reproduction. Such professionals are a vital part of the process and will work to ensure that the best interests of each party are protected and served. Couples who seek to work with egg donor programs should inquire about each program's commitment to these aspects.

Women generously serving as egg donors pass through a screening process that explores their psychological and physical health. Next, appropriate donors undergo ovarian stimulation, using medication to promote the maturation of a number of eggs. In addition to the daily regimen of medication, donors are consistently monitored using ultrasounds and blood tests. The final egg retrieval process is performed using an ultrasound guided needle, which is passed through the vaginal wall. The resulting eggs are fertilized in-vitro and an appropriate number of embryos are then transferred into the recipient's uterus. In return for the time, effort and energy that is involved in the procedure, anonymous donors are financially compensated.

For recipient women with no prospects for conceiving children using their own eggs, the 40% success rate associated with egg donation is a promising and exciting alternative. It should be a source of comfort for both the infertile community and prospective egg donors that select programs exist within the Chicagoland area that are dedicated to this type of humane technology and family building.

7 tips to make cleaning fun for the whole family

Did you know there is a direct correlation between watching more than four hours of TV a day and obesity? There is a solution. Now, you can break your children's television habit, help them stay healthy, and get a clean house all by making chores fun.

The best way to fight obesity is aerobic activity. THE MAIDS, one of the nation's foremost maid services, has found that many cleaning activities double as aerobic exercise. In fact, vacuuming can burn as many as seven calories a minute! So, the solution to combating obesity and a dirty house-enlist your children's help with chores.

You say your children won't trade the remote for a mop? Make cleaning a game. The following tips will sweep your children off the couch and into cleaning:

- 1) Musical Chores: Designate a project (dusting, scrubbing the floor, picking up toys) to each child and start the music. Every time the music turns off, the children switch chores.
- 2) Mow the Carpet: Young children can mimic what you are doing. If you're vacuuming, give them a toy lawn mower to use in the house. Then they can "mow" the carpet while you vacuum.
- 3) Puppet Dusters: Make sock puppets for dusting and start a contest to see whose puppet gets the dirtiest.
- 4) Puppet Shiners: You and your child each wear a sock puppet to clean the patio door window. You're on the outside and he/she's on the inside. Make it a game to follow one another's hand movement as you clean the window.
- 5) Baseboard Race: Start two children next to one another in the same room. The child that gets to the end of the room/house first wins a prize.
- 6) Dash for Trash: Designate a laundry basket for each child. Start a timer for 30 seconds and see which child can put the most in his/her basket before the timer goes off.

7) Hide and Seek: Hide five spoons in various spots (under cushions, on windowsills, under pillows) and see if your child can find all of them by the time he/she is finished cleaning.

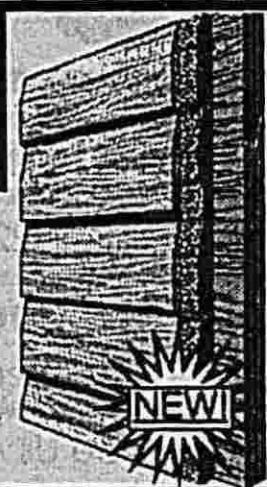

By turning cleaning chores into fun and games, your kids are off the couch, helping with housework, and having fun with the family.

Teaching your child the ABC's of money

Aaaarrghh!! Do you scream every time you hear your kids say in that whiney, all-too-familiar tone, "I want it, I need it, all the other kids have it." Do you hate your own financial planning and wonder how you can possibly help your child understand that money doesn't grow on trees?

With advertisements bombarding kids day and night, for everything from must-have clothes to candy, parents often find it difficult to say "no," much less help their kids develop financial skills that will last a lifetime. So how can you teach your child the value of a buck? Teaching your child the ABC's of money can be fun and easy.

"It is also important," says Pam Patrick, Ph.D., a psychologist with Minneapolis-based Capella University, "to remember that if a child doesn't start learning good money habits at age three, he or she will never do it at thirty." Just like playing a sport, or learning a foreign language, if kids are not introduced to money management skills early they may never pick it up.

According to Randy Schuldt, a vice president with IHateFinancialPlanning.com, a new Web site geared to the 3 out of 4 Americans who hate financial planning, and father of two, children's attitudes about money are based on the things they learn at home.

"Teaching your kids how to manage money begins with you," says Schuldt. "Kids learn a lot by simply watching their parents. The best thing you can do is to get your own financial house in order." To assist parents, IHateFinancialPlanning.com offers the following tips you may want to consider when teaching your child how to develop good money skills.

Treat your own money with respect. Children's attitudes about money are based on the things they learn. You can't completely mold your child's perspective, but you can teach your child to respect money and the hard work it represents.

Start simple. Children have watchful eyes. Small changes in your money habits such as bending down to pick up a penny or counting your change instead of stuffing it in your wallet, teach your child that even small amounts are significant.

Play games. Games are a great way to spend quality time with a young child. IHateFinancialPlanning.com suggests some simple games that will entertain your child while building a basic understanding of money. For example, try playing shopkeeper. Have your child price items with stickers and use play money to buy the items.

Give an allowance. As soon as your child is old enough to count coins, it might be time to give him or her a small allowance. Provide a list of "little jobs," outside of what you normally expect your child to do, to earn a dime or quarter.

Set goals. According to Paul Richard, Director of Education for the National Center for Financial Education, "Setting goals is a fundamental concept to help young people learn the value of money and also how to save." It's never too early for your children to start setting goals for what they want. But set realistic goals that they can achieve. Start small, such as saving for a new toy. As a child gets older, look to bigger goals such as a new bike, travel, or college.

Go to the bank. Check with your bank to see what accounts are available for children and the required minimum balance. When your child has saved enough in his or her piggy bank, take them to the bank and open a savings account. Encourage your kids to make regular deposits, so they can see their money grow.

Create a budget. Once your child has identified clear goals for his or her future, you can create a budget together. This will help your child determine which financial goals are most important and how to allocate his or her money.

Enjoy Money. You work hard for it, and it's a good thing to enjoy it by spending it on things that bring you pleasure. Dream together, such as buying a new home and how you'll work as a family to achieve those dreams. Securities available through PrimeVest Financial Services, Inc., member NASD/SIPC. Call (320) 656-4300, ext. 64691, for a prospectus, which contains complete information on expenses and charges. Read it carefully before you send money or invest. ## How to find a mortgage You've decided on the property you want to buy. Now comes the moment when you need to arrange for financing. If you haven't done so already, ask yourself whether you can comfortably afford the house you've selected.

The key word here is comfortably. While there are mortgage lenders who will stretch your qualification ratio, you'd be wise to stick with a traditional ratio equal to 28 percent of your income. In addition, the total of your mortgage payment plus your monthly debt payments ought not to exceed 36 percent.

If you exceed these parameters, you may risk becoming "house poor" — in effect, living beyond your means. Pledge what you can comfortably afford, and you'll enjoy your new home all the more.

With this in mind, here are tips from Geo-Property.com, the premiere source of real estate information on the Web on taking out a mortgage:

- Work out a budget.
- Manage your money.
- Pay off small debts.
- Documentation.
- Closing costs.
- Compare.

This is the fourth year the Sailors have helped out.

"We've been out here since 0830," said one sailor, Clint Foster. "They bring us the project. We look up their name and check them in. It's been really fun. I've seen lots of neat projects."

Foster and Eric Duffield are from the Gun School on the Base. He said the instructors came in one day and told them they were going to the fair.

Aoife Harley from the Advanced Electronics Technology Core said, "It's been really cool. I've seen a lot of talented children."

Many of the moments in County Stadium history have been spiritual experiences. This ballpark has had quite a relationship with Milwaukee. And though it won't be easy, the time has come to say good-bye. The stadium that has housed so many rich memories will soon become a memory itself. As the games dwindle down, consider the upcoming weekend series against the Colorado Rockies as your chance to send an old friend off in style, while collecting a few more memories to go with the old.

Career Clipboard Notes

Accomplishments vs. Potential

Recruiters are typically looking at our past accomplishments as the key to making the hiring decision. Although potential may be important to future aspects of the job, most recruiters would say that they pay for performance not potential. Let's look more deeply at accomplishments and potential since both are so important to our careers.

Accomplishment, according to Webster, is "bringing about a successful conclusion, proficiency." So in order to say we have accomplished something we have two options. Firstly, we could have been responsible for the actions that brought about success, or secondly we could demonstrate that we are proficient in the skill.

In the classes I have taught on recruiting I suggest that the second method is strongly favored over the first if the recruiter can witness the proficiency (i.e., a test to see keyboarding efficiency.) However, the first method is also helpful if the recruiter can verify the accomplishment through references who know the candidate's involvement in the project.

In contrast, potential is the probability that we will be able to accomplish specific tasks in the future. So the real difference between the two is the time frame. Accomplishments describe past successes, while potential describes possible future successes. Therefore, anyone applying for a new job needs to ask two related questions:

- What will I be expected to do on the day I start?
- What will I be expected to do in the future?

If you have demonstrated, through accomplishment, that you have the skills to do the job on the first day, you can go into the new job with a sense of security. If you have not already demonstrated these skills, you may go into the new job with a sense of adventure. Both security and adventure are good, but you need to know your comfort level with both.

Likewise, if you believe that you have the ability to do the job in the future you will have a secure feeling about accepting the position. If you do not have confidence in that ability, the job future becomes more of a challenge.

If you don't have the current skills or if you currently don't know how you will get the skills to do the job in the future, you have several options. Lying to the recruiter is not a productive option. The one I suggest is an open honest discussion, with the recruiter, about the skills you have and how you can contribute to the new job. Then discuss your concerns. The recruiter will appreciate your honesty and if it's not the right job for you, there may be a different job in that company that matches your skills. The goal, after all, is to get a job where you can be successful. Honesty is the best tool to accomplish that goal.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: I began working for my employer, (Employer name withheld), 14 months ago. After working for one year I was given the standard 2 week vacation. I almost immediately took advantage of it as soon as I was able to since I hadn't had a vacation in almost two years due to changing jobs. I took 8 of the ten days I was allowed leaving me two days I could still take within the year. My personal life changed over the past few weeks with plans for marriage. We have set plans for a December wedding and my fiancé has planned and paid for a honeymoon over Christmas. My company already gives two days off for Christmas and two days off for the New Year holiday, but I will also need another 8 days off since he booked a two week cruise. I approached my boss about my situation and while he seemed genuinely happy for me, he did tell me that there may be a problem with needing any additional time off. He said he would look into it and get back to me. He came to me later in the afternoon and said that he had met with the Personnel department and the Operations Manager and decided that they would allow me only the two days off that I still had coming to me. He told me that in all fairness to other employees, they would have to stick to the rules. My fiancé is furious that his plans may be ruined and has been pushing the issue of calling them himself. I like my job and don't want to put it in jeopardy. Do you think having him call would make things better or worse? F.G. (via e-mail)

Q: Your fiancé may be furious, but what was he thinking when he failed to take your situation into account BEFORE making final plans for time off that you didn't have? Perhaps he got caught up in the moment, however, what he needed to do was look at the BIG picture if it was going to concern your employment. I want to remind you also that a company while "giving" you two days off for Christmas and the New Year, quite often has the stipulation that an employee has to work the day before and the day after in order to receive this perk. In answer to your question I believe that having him call and "push the issue", will make things considerably uncomfortable for you and the employer. Again, it is not the fault of your employer for having to stick to corporate structure. It is however never wise to look into something without first researching the situation. No employer likes to be backed into a corner by an employee (or their fiancé). Truth is, you do not have the time coming to you regardless of plans that have been made. When push comes to shove, be prepared. While you may have pending nuptials, you may also consider the fact that you more than likely will find yourself unemployed or replaced far before your nuptials as a result of the company not wanting to leave themselves at a loss, in the event of your sudden departure or continued plans to go through with your unexcused time off. You may consider an alternative before this gets out of hand. If you have two days off then use them to get away for just that time over a long weekend at the time of your nuptials. Then you can postpone the honeymoon until you have acquired additional time off. Once you make your final decision, inform your employer. Good luck with your employer and your nuptials.

Pet OF THE WEEK

REES

This is Rees. Her owners thought the name was "fitting" because of her coloring. She was adopted over a year ago from SAVE-A-PET. She's about 7 1/2 years old and is very loveable. Her favorite toys are milk carton rings and small balls with bells inside.

✧ HOMETOWN BANKING AT ITS BEST ✧

BECOME A FOUNDER AND ENJOY A LIFETIME OF SUPERIOR BENEFITS

And visit our second location at 495 W. Liberty Street, opening on Monday, July 31!

With the opening of Wauconda Community Bank's second location at 495 W. Liberty Street, we're proud to bring back a hometown tradition that has been missing from this area for far too long: real community banking. Because we are the only locally operated and managed bank around, we can easily tailor our products and services to meet the individual needs of each customer.

Be part of this historic occasion and open a Founder Account, which includes a lifetime of benefits. Simply open a traditional checking account. Then open any combination of savings, CD or Money Market accounts (including IRAs) with an initial deposit of $3,500. Or open an Interest/NOW checking account and then open the combined savings, CD or Money Market accounts with $7,500 or more.

Help bring real hometown banking back to Wauconda. To open your Founder Account, or to learn more about our other great products—like the PlatinumPreferred® Account, designed for folks 50 and over—simply visit either of our locations. Or feel free to call Crystal McClure or Ralph Zicco at 847-487-2500 for more information.

LENDING

ged many suburban homeowners in the metropolitan Chicago area including Lake County.

Illinois Assistant State's Attorney Tom James initiated a lawsuit against First Alliance on behalf of more than 1,500 homeowners who fell prey to the mortgage company's "Monster Track" sales presentations that reaped hundreds of thousands of dollars in "hidden" fees. James noted the majority of victims were elderly.

"Older consumers who have their homes paid off are like an open bank vault with no security system to predatory lenders," commented James.

He said that First Alliance developed sales techniques that integrated entire contacts with the consumer from the first postcard in the mail to the final closing with "loan officers" drafted from car salesmen businesses.

"It was a very effective means of brainwashing the consumer, thus it was highly profitable," James said, noting that the company ran its scam nationwide with the backing of the Lehman Brothers, a well-known Wall Street broker.

The sales techniques of predatory lenders have become so sophisticated that Lawrence

Smith, an attorney for Prairie State Legal Services in Waukegan admitted that sometimes he can't even determine whether loan companies are following the correct "truth in lending" disclosure procedures when his clients come to him to review documents. He then seeks the assistance of Rheingold, whom he claimed has a knack for spotting lending scams.

State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), who is a spry octogenarian herself, has co-sponsored a bill with other state representatives to create preliminary regulations for predatory lending. Geo-Karis recalled the bill being approved by the state's finance committee, but it has yet to be approved by the House.

"I'm not satisfied. Too much of this is going on," claimed Geo-Karis who is looking to bring the bill up again at the next state legislative session. "I don't care if people make a profit, but I don't want them to be unconscionable about it."

"The whole system is broken, and no one is being held accountable," stressed Rheingold. "The mortgage broker doesn't care because he gives the loan to the lender. The lender doesn't care either because it turns around and sells the loan to another company. Everyone passes the buck but nobody takes responsibility for scamming these people."

In May, Gov. George Ryan signed legislation concerning predatory lending. He directed the Office of Banks and Real Estate and the Dept. of Financial Institutions to develop rules and an enforcement approach to the issue.

The importance of technology in the Classroom

In schools today, teachers and students integrate technology through the use of a multidisciplinary curriculum that includes: math, science, communications, arts, history, reading, health, graphic arts, and more.

Technology is used as a tool to make, enhance, and communicate learning. Using technology throughout the curriculum amplifies the student's learning process. Multidisciplinary curriculum provides students with the opportunity to use the problem-solving approach through technology. Technology provides students with increased opportunities for them to gain skills for the future. It also moves the focus from teacher-directed to student-centered, teacher-facilitated, hands-on, minds-on instruction.

Classrooms of today need to experience real-world situations to prepare students for the future.

Teachers can bring their student in contact with the world, to problem-solve, and to gain experience in addressing the problems they will face, in our complex information based world of tomorrow. Through technology-enhanced learning, students develop processing skills, interpersonal skills, researching skills, communication skills and much more.

In Grayslake District 46, four classrooms from Woodview and Lakeview Elementary schools participated in a Illinois State Board of Education grant-awarded program called, Museum in the Classroom. As a part of the project, These classrooms were matched with the Wildlife Prairie Park, connected with the Hult Health Museum in Peoria, Ill., to develop an interactive, on-line curriculum project that utilized the resources of the museum and the park.

Together with the museum, the schools implemented a project that was aligned with the Illinois State Learning Standards in reading and math through technology. For this project students became researchers, analyzers, communicators, and evaluators. To accomplish their goal, electronic teaching stations and research centers were developed in the media center and in the classrooms.

Together, students and teachers focused on a community issue involving tallgrass prairie restoration. Everyone involved was given the opportunity to attend training for using the technological equipment provided by the grant. Students that were trained on the equipment became experts, bringing their knowledge to the classroom to share with the other students, which put them in the teaching role. Each student was placed in specialized groups, where they became know as experts in that area. Some of the specialized groups were; web design team, quick-time virtual reality team, photographers, field researcher, architects, graphic designers, publication editors, writers, illustrators, and presenters.

To promote group learning, classrooms were set up in work stations to allow for proper group function and teacher and student expert facilitation. Some of the stations in the Museum in the Classroom project included: multimedia technologies (computers, laser disks, cd-roms), telecommunication stations (email, video-conferencing, telephones), peripherals station (scanners, digital camera, printers) and stations that included research resources (encyclopedia, CD-Rom, internet and other paper resources), and station that used various software (Adobe Photoshop, Quick-Time Virtual-Reality Authoring Studio, Claris Home Page Web Design).

In this district, currently all classrooms have computer work stations and access to computer labs. The schools in the Museum in the Classroom project had the opportunity to use new advances in technology provided by the grant. The participating teachers plan on expanding the museum projects to incorporate and equip additional classrooms to continue to enhance learning with technology.

Preparing children for their future

The success of this project is not only based on the State and district partnership, but also the partnership with the parents of our schools. Parental participation and support was key throughout the museum project. Parents were involved, not only in the classrooms, but also in the field experience. Many parents supported the project by offering their technology skills throughout our work stations. Everyone involved in projects like these, leaves with a greater understanding and appreciation for technology.

Visit Grayslake District 46's webpage to view the museum project, and how our schools are using technology in the classroom. www.d46.k12.il.us ♦

Tips for Avoiding Dog Bites

FOR YOUR HEALTH

By Leslie Piotrowski, M.S.
Communications Manager,
Lake County Health Department
Community Health Center

Postal workers with dogs attached to their ankles have been the subject of jokes and cartoons for years. But there is nothing funny about dog bite injuries to the more than 4.7 million victims who are bitten each year, most of whom are children. Last year, the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center received 1,321 reports of domestic animal bites.

"In most cases, dog bites are not caused by bad dogs, but by irresponsible dog owners," said Dale Galassie, the Health Department's Executive Director. "Dogs who often bite humans are dogs who are not properly socialized to other persons, are not supervised or safely confined, are not sterilized, or receive little attention and handling."

Galassie said that dogs who have not been spayed or neutered are three times more likely to bite. For this reason, the Health Department's Animal Control recommends that the first step owners take to prevent dogs from biting is to have the dog spayed or neutered. Proper socialization, supervision, humane training and safe confinement are also important components of responsible dog ownership and bite prevention.

Other tips for preventing dog bites include:

- Never leave a baby or small child alone with a dog.
- Children should be taught to ask permission from a dog's owner before petting the dog.
- Children should be taught not to approach strange dogs.
- Never run past a dog.
- Never disturb a dog that's caring for puppies, sleeping or eating.
- If you're threatened by a dog, remain calm; don't turn and run.
- Treat dogs with respect.

If you are bitten or threatened by a dog, you should report the incident to the Health Department's Animal Control at (847) 949-9925.

"Dogs can be wonderful companions," said Galassie. "By acting responsibly, owners can reduce the number of dog bites, and enhance relationships with their pets." ♦

Make the most of the dog days of summer

With school bells just around the corner plan lots of fun in the sun in early August

Camps are over. Family vacations are a memory. And there are two, possibly three, weeks of summer break left before school starts! What can you do, as a family, to make these last few weeks of summer fun, active, and exciting? Here are a few ideas to keep your clan on the go right up until that first school bell rings!

See the Zoo

Spend an afternoon, or the whole day, at the zoo! Whichever zoo you choose - whether it's Brookfield, Lincoln Park, Milwaukee County, or Racine - you can make it a fun-family-fitness-adventure! Skip the tram rides (and the fast food!) and explore the parks on your own two feet. Map out your must see animals and attractions and get moving!

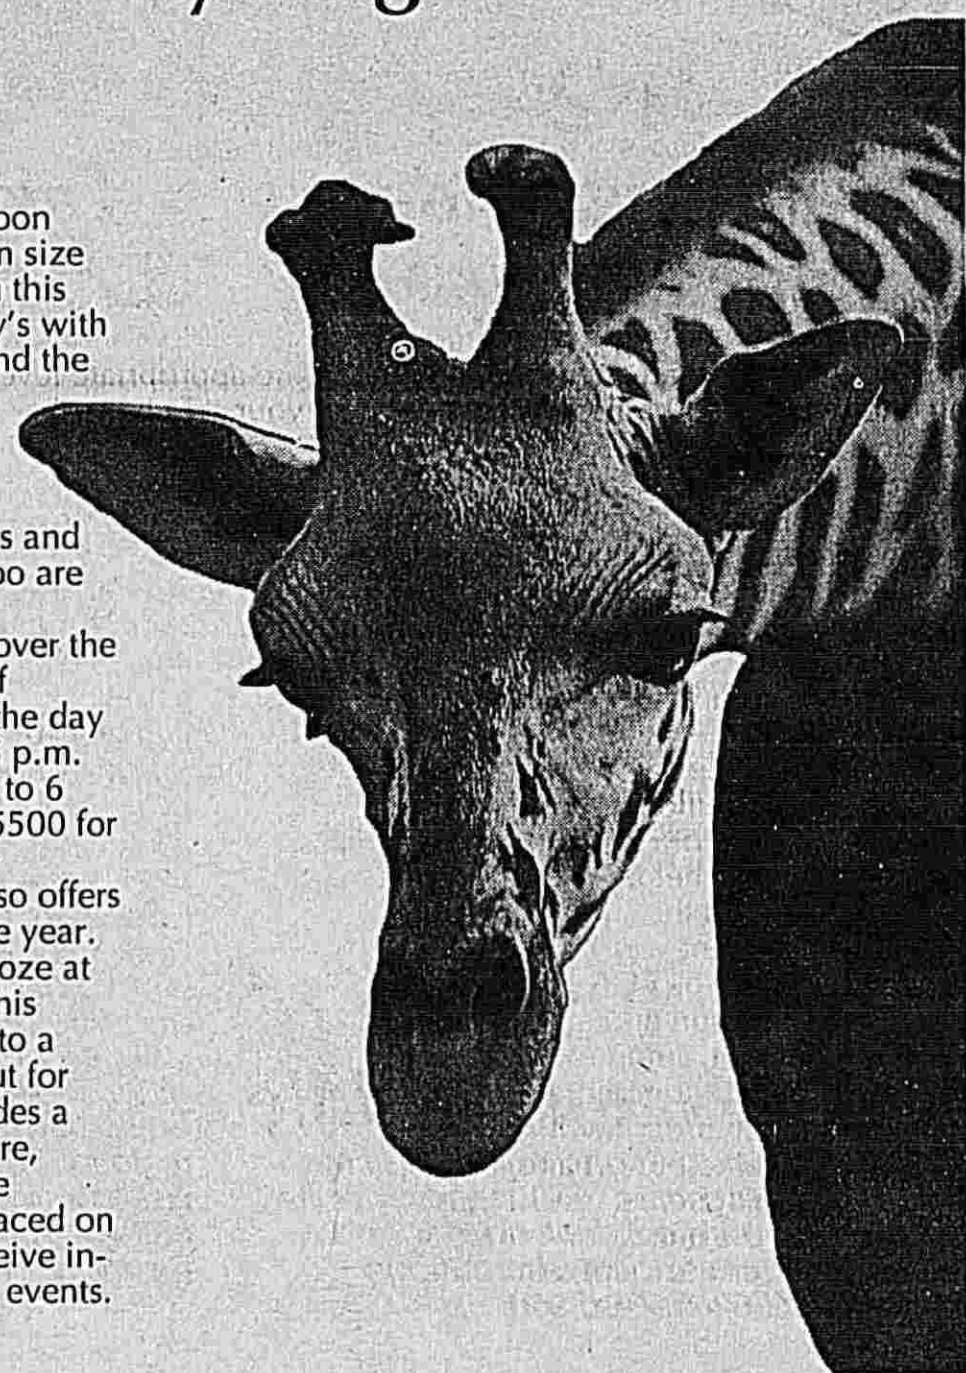

Brookfield Zoo offers 216 acres with more than 2,800 animals for your family's enjoyment; that's a lot of ground to cover. Pack your own healthy picnic lunch and turn the day into a family safari. Sneak in a little education along the way; pick a species, a country, or a continent and discover what you can learn about the different animals and their habitats. Brookfield Zoo is open from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. (10 a.m. - 5 p.m. after Labor Day) seven days a week. Call 708-485-0263 for cost of admission and parking.

Lincoln Park Zoo is smaller in size than Brookfield but offers just as much fun. An added benefit is FREE admission! (There is a fee for parking.) A variety of zoo-sponsored events are presented throughout the summer. Call 312-742-2000 for all of the details. Lincoln Park Zoo is open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekends and holidays.

Closer to home and perfect for an afternoon excursion is the Racine Zoo. Just 32 acres in size and nestled on the shores of Lake Michigan this zoo offers the right amount of fun for family's with toddlers and babies. With free admission and the ability to bring your own healthy snacks this is also a very affordable outing. The Racine Zoo is open from 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. (9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. after Labor Day) every day. Call 262-636-9189 for directions and additional information. Donations to the zoo are encouraged.

The Milwaukee County Zoo is also just over the Wisconsin border and features 200 acres of animals and attractions. Plan on spending the day to take it all in. The zoo is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sundays and holidays. Call 414-771-5500 for admission and parking information.

The Zoological Society of Milwaukee also offers several family-geared events throughout the year. One event worth noting is the annual "Snooze at the Zoo." (Sorry, the "Snooze" is sold out this year!) Each August the Zoo opens its gates to a limited number of guests who can camp out for one night in the zoo! The adventure includes a picnic buffet dinner, s'mores by the campfire, breakfast, and free admission to the zoo the following day. Call 414-258-2333 to be placed on the society's mailing list. You will then receive information regarding this and other exciting events.

Explore nature

Another great way to keep the family moving is to spend an afternoon exploring one of the 70-80 miles of Lake County Forest Preserve Trails. Whether you're biking or hiking the well-maintained trails offer an inexpensive, but fun, way to stay fit! Contact the Forest Preserve's main office at 847-367-6640 for current trail maps.

Soak in some sun and enjoy the remaining hot, summer days at the beach. Jump in the water and splash around with the kids. Or grab a bucket and shovel and build the biggest sandcastle on the beach! (With or without your kids help!) An afternoon spent in the surf and sand is an excellent way to burn calories and be active.

Soak in some sun and enjoy the remaining hot, summer days at the beach. Jump in the water and splash around with the kids. Or grab a bucket and shovel and build the biggest sandcastle on the beach! (With or without your kids help!) An afternoon spent in the surf and sand is an excellent way to burn calories and be active. (But keep your skin from burning! Be sure to wear the appropriate level of sunscreen for your skin type.)

Diamond Lake Beach in Mundelein is a great place to do just that. The beach is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. seven days a week through Labor Day weekend. You are permitted to bring food and drinks onto the beach (no glass bottles!). Daily admission is just $5 per person. Season passes are also available. Call 847-566-5650 for information.

Travel back in time at the museum

Need a rainy day activity? Try visiting the Lake County Museum. The museum is located in the Lakewood Forest Preserve at the corner of Route 176 and Fairfield Road in Wauconda and features interactive exhibits that are geared for ages four to adult.

One of the many exhibits is the Cinemax Vortex Theatre detailing the history of Lake County from the Ice Age to the present. This small omni-type theater takes you through the years on a roller coaster type ride! What a great way to get an education of your community! The museum is open Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and from 1 to 4:30 p.m. on Sundays. Admission is just $5 for adults and $2.50 for children ages 4 - 17. Call 847-526-7878 for more information; ask about special discount days. And if it's sunny when you walk out of the museum, go for a quick hike around the forest preserve or try the 3/4-mile physical fitness trail!

Remember that fitness opportunities are all around you. Look at each day as a chance to get fit, stay fit, and be healthy for life. Whether you enjoy one of these activities or just take the kids to the park get up and get moving. Stay energized and enjoy life!

Next Month: Don't pack away your running shoes! The fall is a great time to participate in a "Family Fun Run!"

Have a family fitness program you'd like to see highlighted? Contact Suburban Family at www.suburbanfamily.com and we'll do our best to feature your activities. ♦

Recipes and photographs for Kids in the Kitchen are supplied by www.culinary.net. Visit our their website for a wealth of recipes for you and your kids!

Strawberry Napoleons

Makes 12 servings

- 1 envelope KNOX Unflavored Gelatine
- 1/2 cup skim milk
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 1 (8-ounce) nonfat vanilla yogurt
- 1 cup fat free ricotta cheese
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1/2 cup chopped strawberries
- 36 squares HONEY MAID Honey Grahams
- Fat free whipped topping and strawberry halves, for garnish

Preparation

1. Sprinkle gelatine over milk in small saucepan; let stand 1 minute. Stir over low heat until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 3 minutes. Stir in sugar until dissolved. Cool slightly.
2. Combine yogurt, ricotta cheese and lemon peel in electric blender container; blend until smooth. Gradually blend in gelatine mixture until well combined. Refrigerate until slightly thickened, about 30 minutes. Stir in chopped strawberries; refrigerate until mounding consistency, about 30 minutes.
3. Using 3 graham squares for each dessert, place 2 tablespoons gelatin mixture on top of 1 square, top with another graham square; repeat layers once. Refrigerate until serving time. To serve, garnish with whipped topping and strawberry halves.

Nutrition Information per serving (without garnish): 137 calories, 2 g total fat, 1 mg cholesterol, 184 mg sodium

Banana Surprise

Makes 4 servings

- 2 ripe bananas, divided
- 5 squares HONEY MAID Chocolate Grahams, coarsely crushed, divided
- 1 envelope KNOX Unflavored Gelatine
- 1/4 cup skim milk
- 1 (8-ounce) container nonfat vanilla yogurt
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 1/4 cups prepared whipped topping, divided

Preparation

1. Slice 1 banana and place in 4 individual dessert dishes. Sprinkle each with 1 tablespoon graham crumbs.
2. Sprinkle gelatine over milk in saucepan; let stand 1 minute. Over low heat, stir until gelatine completely dissolves, about 3 minutes.
3. Blend yogurt, remaining banana and sugar in blender at high speed until smooth. Add gelatine mixture; process until blended. Fold in 1 cup whipped topping.
4. Pour gelatin mixture over bananas in dessert dishes. Refrigerate for 10 to 12 minutes before serving. Garnish with remaining whipped topping and reserved crumbs.

If your child has problems learning in school, a screening may find the cause

Your child may have 20/20 eyesight but 0/0 vision - the difference is critical.

Eyesight is merely the basic ability to see; vision is the ability to identify, interpret, comprehend, and act on what is seen.

Routine vision test performed by school personnel or by most eye care professionals measure eyesight. They do not include the kinds of testing that can find visually related learning problems.

COULD YOUR CHILD BE AT RISK?

Our visual processing therapy program can diagnose and successfully treat vision problems that are often reflected in the following behaviors:

1. Unable to sit still; cannot stay on task for any length of time.
2. Very clumsy; poor eye-hand coordination.
3. Does written work very slowly, often fails to complete a task.
4. Has difficulty copying visual material.
5. Moves entire head instead of just eyes when reading.
6. Reversals - for example: confusing the words "was" and "saw" or letters "b" and "d".

7. Is disorganized and frustrated when studying visual information.
8. Makes frequent, "careless" errors.

If your son or daughter, age six to 16 has one or more of these behaviors, call 847-362-9900 today to schedule a screening for vision-related learning problems. It could be the most important phone call you will make during his or her school years.

THE SCREENING INCLUDES AN EVALUATION OF:

Visual Memory: The ability to store and retrieve visual information.

Concentration: The ability to maintain a visual task without distractions.

Reversal Frequency: Confusing letters (b,d,p,q).

Visual Integration: The ability to combine visual input with other sensory or past inputs.

Motor Speed and Precision: Eye-hand coordination.

Acuity Defects: Near-sightedness, far-sightedness and astigmatism.

Eye Teaming/Focusing Skills: The ability to maintain clear and single vision at distance and near for prolonged periods of time without discomfort or abnormal effort.

Visualization: Ability to develop a mental picture - closely related to comprehension.

Visual Style: The evaluation of how a person performs a visual task in terms of accuracy, speed, and energy used.

THE SCREENING CONSISTS OF 14 DIFFERENT TESTS AND TAKES APPROXIMATELY ONE HOUR.

41% of students in the lower third of a normal class and 68% of students in special education programs have vision problems that can be corrected. Could your child be among them? Call us at 847-362-9900 to schedule your screening appointment.

WHAT IS OUR STRATEGY?

First we test and diagnose a child's visually related learning problems. If a visual handicap exists, a vision therapy program will be developed to meet the child's special needs. Once enrolled in our intensive visual processing program, a child will work on specific goals. A professional vision therapist will conduct carefully sequenced activities to strengthen weak areas in order to bring the "vision system" up to par. The time span for therapy is designed to allow each child to achieve maximum results.

WILL INSURANCE COVER THE COST?

Here is a comforting thought. Our program may be covered by your major medical insurance policy.

THE TIME TO ACT IS NOW!

If your child is between the ages of six and 16, call us today at 847-362-9900 to set up an appointment for a screening. Any unexplained learning problem is a potential vision-related learning problem. When diagnosed early, visual processing therapy can significantly improve and often alleviate the problem entirely.

The comprehensive screening is available. Can you afford to pass up this possible explanation for your child's baffling lack of success in school? Call 847-362-9900 today.

WHAT PARENTS HAVE TO SAY ABOUT VISION THERAPY PROGRAM...

"I can highly recommend anyone with any questions about their child's performance, after going through the program successfully with two of my children."

E. Teennessen

"Personality has changed in that Melissa seems to be much more forward in her relationships with other people. Her school has also improved significantly."

J. Zeman
